Ohioan New A.N.A. Head In Atlanta

C. C. Shroyer officially became head of the world's largest numismatic organization during the Saturday morning session of the American Numismatic Association convention in Atlanta when he was installed by Past President Leonel Panosh of California.

First announcement of the 1961 election results was made by Historian Jack Ogilvie of Hollywood, Calif., who read the official tabulations of 9,719 votes, an all-time high in A.N.A. history.

For the first time in history an independent accounting firm tabulated the balloting following its August 1 deadline; prior to this time an election committee spent most of each A.N.A. convention counting votes.

Harold Klein of Chicago was successful in his candidacy as treasurer for the A.N.A., and will begin his 13th year in the post. He was opposed for the office by Eldridge G. Jones of Washington, D. C. Klein received a total of 5,642 votes, and Jones 3,702.

The five successful members of the Board of Governors out of a group of 16 who sought the posts were:

John Jay Pittman, Rochester, N. Y.; Arthur Sipe, Drexel Hill, Pa.; Robert G. MacArthur, Oakland, Calif.; Matt H. Rothert, Camden, Ark., and Charles M. Johnson, Long Beach, Calif.

Other key officials who were unopposed for office are P. K. Anderson, Gotebo, Okla., first vice president; Herbert M. Bergen, Fullerton, Calif., second vice president, and Lewis M. Reagan, Wichita, Kansas, general secretary.

Clain-Stefanelli, Arlington, Va., curator of coins; Admiral Dodson, curator of medals; Jack W. Ogilvie, Hollywood, Calif., historian; Michael M. Dolnick, Chicago, custodian of slides; Harry Lessin, Norwalk, Conn., legal counsel; Glenn B. Smedley, Oak Park, Ill., assistant to the editor; Don Sherer, Phoenix, Ariz., assistant to the general secretary. Jones is currently District of Columbia representative.

Elston G. Bradfield, of Chicago, is editor of The Numismatist, official publication of the A.N.A. S. W. Freeman of Newport, Ark., is advertising manager of The Numismatist. Louis S. Werner is sergeant at arms, emeritus.

Official count in the Board of Governors balloting was:

John Jay Pittman, 4,428; Arthur Sipe, 4,268; Robert G. MacArthur, 4,156; Matt Rothert, 3,757; Charles Johnson, 3,584; Leo G. Terry, Indianapolis, 3,341; Dr. C. A. Bolt, Marshville, N. C., 3,178; Harold H. Berk, Warren, Ohio, 2,743; Earl Glen Whitehead, Los Angeles, 2,506; William N. Worth, Portland, 2,502; Elmer G. Nelson, Grand Island, Neb., 2,195; Ray O. Lefman, Kansas City, 1,919; E. Ward Russell, Silver Spring, Md., 1,793; Raymond Gallo, New York, 1,708; Ben Stocker, Detroit, 1,695, and Vernon L. Oblisk, Bradenton, Fla., 1,468.

National Coin Week Chairman Renamed; Dolly-Maude Harris To Serve In 1962

Coinage of Nations will be the theme of the 1962 American Numismatic Association National Coin Week to be held from April 28-May 5 next year, Dolly-Maude Harris, first National Coin Week chairman ever to be renamed a second year, announced in Atlanta before she left for her Austin, Texas, home.

Chairman Harris, second woman in A.N.A. history to hold the high post (Mrs. Carl Roethke, Saginaw, Mich., also served as N.C.W. chairman) said she had selected a theme with an international flavor because of the joint A.N.A.-C.N.A. international convention to be held in Detroit next fall.

The vivacious Texas business woman, who is one of the leading lights in numismatics throughout the country, announced a series of changes in the rules for the 1962 National Coin Week to update and modernize procedures.

She drafted the changes following a study of her experiences in working with the 1961 entries.

A new class has been created—double A for clubs with a membership of over 100, and a division has been established for junior club entries.

Other changes include a removal of point limitation in several categories with no limit to the total number of points that may be accumulated in the final tabulation.

The six classifications for 1962 N.C.W. competition will include Class AA for clubs of 101 members and over; class A, clubs with 51 to 100 members; class B, clubs with 26 to 50 members; class C, 25 and under; individual and junior.

New rules require submission of an official entry blank, accompanied by appropriate documentary material; clubs must enter according to their size. Individual entries cannot be included in any club entry.

Judging scale will be as follows:

Public display of numismatic exhibits, 10 point minimum and a no limit maximum. Point scoring for each location will take into consideration the number of displays, prominence of location, popular interest and numismatic story told by exhibits, excellence of arrangement and labeling. The presence of members to explain the exhibits will be considered. Monetary value of exhibits will not be considered. The minimum point scoring of five points for each display location and each exhibitor will be used.

Texas Exhibitor Wins Best-In-Show Plaque

R. E. Cox Jr. of Fort Worth won the Howland Wood memorial plaque for the most outstanding exhibit—a complete set of U. S. half dollars—at the 70th annual convention of the American Numismatic Association in Atlanta.

Presentation of the highest A. N.A. exhibit honor was made to Cox at the Saturday night banquet.

Cox, life member 356 in the A.N.A., is president of the R. E. Cox and Company Department Stores in Fort Worth.

Other awards for exhibits were made during the Friday morning business session in the Pompeian Room where Herbert M. Bergen, Fullerton, Calif., chairman of the judging committee, presided.

There were two innovations in the judging procedure at this year's convention—Bergen and William Worth of Portland, Ore., served as judges, but they selected a third numismatist in each of the categories to serve as a specialist judge, and immediately following the judging the winning exhibits were identified for the convenience of spectators.

Specialist judges aiding Bergen and Worth included Byron Johnson, Seattle, U. S. coins; Vernon Sheldon, Chicago, coins prior to 1500 A. D.; Alan Craig, Berkeley, Calif., foreign coins after 1500 A. D.; Charles Johnson, Long Beach, Calif., United States paper money. There was no specialist judge for foreign paper money available at the convention.

Harley L. Freeman of Ormond Beach, Fla., aided in the judging of Confederate and southern states paper money. Harry Lessin of Norwalk, Conn., joined the judges for the medals, medallic art, orders and decorations. Paul Hamm, San Diego, was the consultant for the miscellaneous and specialized categories.

Philip S. Reed, Claude Murphy, Roy T. Payne, John W. Teepell, John J. Sadler Jr. and Harrison Birchmore were members of the Atlanta exhibits committee.

A complete list of winners included:

Registration Hits New Peak

Official registration count at the Atlanta American Numismatic Association set a new record—a total of 1,504 persons registered and received the official 70th convention badge.

"We were able to supply the four badges to those people past the 1,500 mark only because we are good repairmen," said General Chairman George M. Todd.

Four of the convention badges of red, white and blue ribbons and the medal were defective. The committee held them back, but there was a scramble to mend them when the registration figure rose past the 1,500 mark.

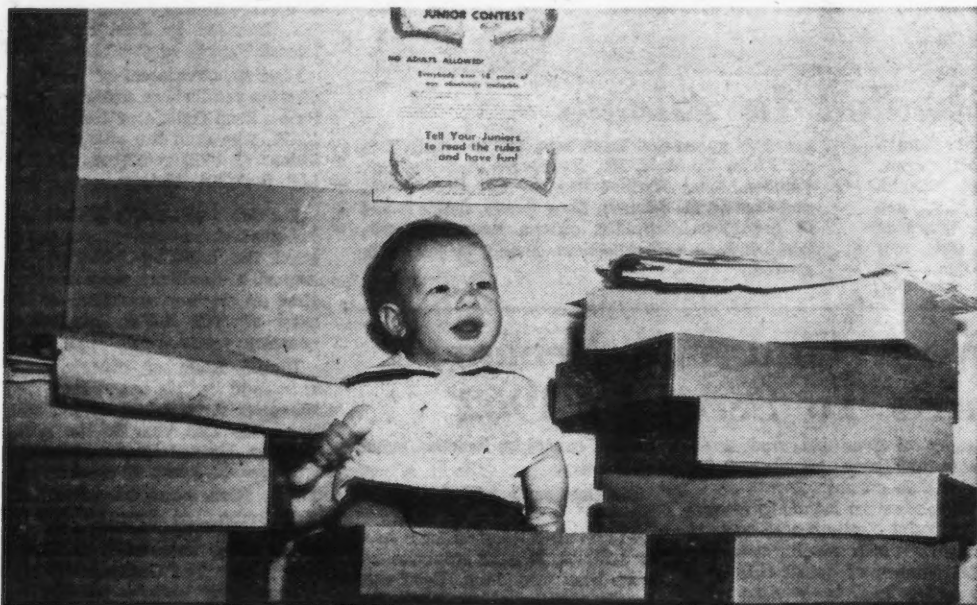

Another A.N.A. official who declared himself an expert craftsman was General Secretary Lewis M. Reagan who was kept busy attaching convention bars to badges. These bars bearing the name of the convention city and the date are available at each annual meeting.

hamton, N. Y., and editor of the Empire Review; Miss Margaret C. McAuley, of Atlanta, publicity director of the Atlanta convention, and C. C. Shroyer of Fremont, Ohio, newly-installed president of the A.N.A.

Jeffrey Johnson, four-month-old son of Editor and Mrs. D. Wayne Johnson, indicated today with a shake of his rattle that there are great things ahead for the wonderful world of Numismatics.

He based his opinion on the caliber of the nearly 600 entries in the Coin World Junior Contest. Winners are announced in this issue.

son, age 13, 7829 Alderman Road, Jacksonville, Fla.

Honorable mention and medals will go to the following in Class II:

Linda Hackbarth, age 13, 823 Beech St., Columbus, 6, Ohio; Neal Litman, age 13, 2624 Southard Ave., Oceanside, N. Y.; Marty Davis, age 13, 259 Bassett Avenue, Lexington, Ky.; Greg Madera, age 13, 864 Randolph Place, Union, N. J.; John Edward Lingo, age seven, 550 Third St., N. E., New Philadelphia, Ohio; Danny Reich, age 9, R. R. 1, Box 161, Boulder, Colo.

The three judges, A.N.A. president C. C. Shroyer, of Fremont, Ohio, Miss Margaret C. McAuley, of Atlanta, and Q. David Bowers, Binghamton, N. Y., all declared in Atlanta their assignment to pick the winners was a most difficult task with only a fraction of degrees separating the first five place winners.

A total of 568 entries were received by Coin World, with only a few of them with late postmarks. One was received without any type of identification.

Every entry was read—and the delightful study of youthful coin collectors which emerged was of great interest itself.

One Boys' Club from Phoenix, Ariz., submitted several entries....one Texas contestant reported five out of the seven children in the family collected coins....a 17-year-old revealed he was an ex-editor of a coin publication.

Some clubs across the country and in Canada included notices of the contest in their bulletins....one teacher asked for a different timing on the contest—suggested it be held during the school year so teachers could utilize it for their students....

One youngster wrote in his entry:

"Even before the 20th century coin collectors were at large...."

There was evidence throughout the contest that young people are conscious of the juvenile delinquency problem, and they are convinced coin collecting is one way to combat it.

They also frequently mentioned how coin collecting combats boredom.

The junior collectors often mentioned Boy and Girl Scout influences in their collecting habits. Many mentioned it as a family hobby, and a vehicle for "togetherness."

One boy declared he had no choice in the matter.

"My parents started me before I was born," he said.

A seven-year-old reported he had other hobbies, but that something always happened. Then he cited the fact that his pollywogs became frogs and hopped away.

"It makes me proud to open my book and see Mr. Lincoln waiting there," he said.

Tribute Goes To Three Men

Three men received special tribute from Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.) as he left the presidency at the Atlanta convention.

The trio included general secretary, Lewis Reagan, Elston Bradfield and S. W. Freeman, editor and advertising manager of The Numismatist.

"In addition to the daily requirement of earning a living and supporting a family these men devote long extra hours to keep the A.N.A. functioning.

"For their loyalty and keen enthusiasm, they deserve the gratitude of our membership," said Admiral Dodson.

Fifty-Year Trio Honored

Three members of the American Numismatic Association were recognized for their 50 years of membership in the organization with 50-year gold membership awards at the Atlanta convention, although none of them were present to receive the medal.

Members for half a century include Frank I. Liveright, Arthur W. Kopp and H. A. Brand.

A.N.A. Has Responsibility To Lead Hobby Says Dodson

"The American Numismatic Association is the moral, civic and ethical leader in the world of numismatics," Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.), retiring president of the A.N.A., said as he turned over the gavel to Ohioan C. C. Shroyer of Fremont at the 70th convention in Atlanta.

Describing the A.N.A. membership as a cross-section of America, Admiral Dodson called the members "adventurous and searching spirits who travel great distances to attend conventions, who seek more and more knowledge of their coins and through this knowledge gain a greater understanding of history and contemporary foreign culture."

The A.N.A. is full of beginning collectors who concentrate on mistakes in coins and on coins hidden in paper rolls, the admiral said, but he charged:

"Remember, most of us when first interested in coins exhibited the same lack of focus, the same lack of depth, which is characteristic of many new collectors today. However, these new members are our greatest asset; growing in numismatic knowledge they will become the main spring of the Association tomorrow."

"We have a high destiny," the admiral said in his remarks. "But the A.N.A. can rise no higher than those who administer the needs of the organization and set the course for the future."

"Give us men who are willing to make their life count in numismatics," he urged.

Eric Newman Refutes 1804 Dollar

St. Louis Scholar Gives Theory At A.N.A. Program

By D. Wayne Johnson
Editor, Coin World

"There are no 1804 dollars!" said Eric P. Newman, St. Louis, in a speech before the members of the American Numismatic Association assembled for the educational program of the annual convention, August 17, in Atlanta, Ga. "The most charitable opinion I can give of the 1804 dollar," Newman said, "is that it was a fabrication first produced by mint employees about 1840 for the benefit of the Mint coin collection and that the dies were subsequently misused in a fraudulent manner which may have been winked at then, but which should be considered a disgrace today."

The statement that no real 1804 dollars exist concluded a 20-minute speech on the king of American rarities—a "most concise conclusion", commented moderator Glenn B. Smedley, Oak Park, Ill.

Newman, founder and head of the Eric P. Newman Numismatic Education Society, reinforced a theory that all 1804 dollars were made after 1836 because of the different coining method after the introduction of steam coinage presses in 1836.

The St. Louis lawyer and corporation executive is a prominent numismatic author and a recognized authority on United States coins.

In support of this theory, he outlined the details of how coins were manufactured in the 1804 period, particularly as applied to the borders and the lettered edges, and how this differed with coins made after 1836.

Newman spoke at length on the latest pieces to appear in the numismatic field, an 1804 plus a companion 1805 dollar, both owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Ostheimer 3rd, Philadelphia, Pa. These coins, known as the Zerbe pieces, were once owned by Farran Zerbe, first curator of the Chase Manhattan Bank's Museum of Monies of the World.

First announcement of the existence of the Zerbe 1804 and 1805 dollars came in an article by Alfred Ostheimer, published simultaneously in Coin World (June 9, 1961), The Numismatist, Numismatic Scrapbook Magazine and Numismatic News.

The article gave complete background on the two coins, the metallographical reports—two of four tests that had been made up to that time, and the opinion of M. H. Bolender, author of the standard work on the dollars of that era, "The United States Early Silver Dollars from 1794 to 1803."

On the basis of the two reports and of Bolender's opinion that the coins were genuine, the Ostheim-ers purchased the coins from coin dealer Louis S. Werner and wrote the article.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ostheimer were in the Atlanta audience listening to Newman's speech. So was Louis Werner. After Newman's presentation, these comments were made:

THE OWNERS—Mr. and Mrs. Ostheimer: "We have nothing to hide, we don't care if the coins are good or bad, but we want to find the truth."

THE SELLER—Louis S. Werner, longtime New York City coin dealer, retiring A.N.A. sergeant at arms after 25 years of service: "I'm in the middle, but I will stick with my metallographical reports."

THE EXPERT—Eric P. Newman: "These coins are masterpieces of deception!"

In his Atlanta talk Newman built support for his theory that the Zerbe-Werner-Ostheimer coin dated 1804 was altered from an 1802, and that the 1805 was altered from an 1803 dollar.

"To force metal from one position to another by expert tooling or chasing has been done before, but the skill and perseverance demonstrated in these coins is indeed fantastic."

"The anonymous craftsman has caused the confusion he intended!"

Newman had first examined photographs of the two coins. Then enroute to South Africa, he stopped off in Philadelphia to see the coins first hand.

(He returned from his African trip a week before the A.N.A. convention—in time to write his speech.)

The stars on the coins—the usual means of identifying the early varieties—on the Zerbe coins had been reamed by shaving away and tooling part of the ends and sides.

The reshaping of the stars gave the clue to Newman that the coin had been tampered with to avoid a similarity to a known variety of another date.

With the exception of the stars and the last figure of the date—which were allegedly altered—the coins resemble earlier coins, he said. "The 1804 Zerbe coin is identical to the 1802 over 1 Bolender 4 variety," according to Newman.

"The 1805 Zerbe dollar is identical with the large date 1803 Bolender 6 variety."

In reply to Newman's statement that their two coins were altered from an 1802 and 1803, the Ostheimers pointed to the two metallographical reports, spelled out in their published article.

The Zerbe-Werner-Ostheimer 1804 and 1805 silver dollars

The reports say: "No visible evidence was found of alteration by the addition, removal or tooling of the medal."

And: "... no indications of any distortions or replacement of the date could be found."

"What Newman says is metallographically impossible," said Alfred Ostheimer, "It must be some other process. What happened?"

The history of these two coins can be traced back for a short period. The Ostheimers purchased the coins from Louis Werner with a money-back clause if they proved to be altered.

"We have no money riding on the outcome," said the Ostheimers. "Our financial interest is terminable at will for quite some time without loss."

Louis Werner purchased the two coins from Farran Zerbe.

Zerbe had bought the coins from Miss M. A. Dunn of Brooklyn. In 1939 the coins were sent to Miss Dunn by Spinks of London.

At Spinks the trail ends—the English firm does not know where the Zerbe coins came from.

On the morning following Newman's speech, the Ostheimers invited a group of experts to breakfast to discuss the coins.

In attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Ostheimer, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Newman, John J. Ford Jr., New York coin dealer; M. H. Bolender, author of the book on early silver dollars; Frank Sterling, discoverer of two new early dollar varieties; and Walter H. Breen, U.S. coin authority.

Louis Werner was invited but did not attend.

At this meeting, the metallographical tests were discussed. Some are still underway, not all are completed yet.

It was mentioned that the metallographists say the metal movement theory is impossible, and that no change of hardness can be located.

It was reported that Bolender, who had issued the first opinion that the coins were genuine, had reversed himself and now disclaims their genuineness in a letter to Newman according to the latter.

Later John Ford reported that the Zerbe coins were known prior to World War II and that the following persons saw them and allegedly said they were not genuine:

B. G. Johnson, St. Louis Stamp & Coin Co., who handled more

U.S. varieties than any other 20th century dealer, including the Brand and Colonel Green collections.

Morton Stack, New York dealer.

Howland Wood, curator, American Numismatic Society.

And F. C. C. Boyd, reported to be one of two greatest collectors of U.S. coins who would not own any 1804 dollars.

Seller of the coins, Louis Werner, said he had paid Bolender for his report, and for several other reports. He has a file of documents but allegedly said he would not produce them except in court. His statement after Newman's speech:

"I will stick with my first report that I have received from the metallurgists and if the metallurgists are wrong then everything they do for the United States government is wrong."

"I base my opinion on the report I received from metallurgists—I'm not interested in die varieties or anything else. He is entitled to his opinion."

After the speech, Newman was asked several questions by a group of listeners.

Question: What is the legality of these coins?

Newman: It is the man who altered the coin who committed the crime and the possessor of an altered coin is apparently free, as evidenced by the flood of 1913 Liberty nickels.

Question: How long did it take the person who may have altered these coins?

Newman: He must have worked for weeks. He worked on figures in the date, then stars.

Question: Why didn't he eliminate the die breaks, change more stars?

Newman: He had to stop somewhere.

Question: Were these coins made in the 1840's?

Newman: These coins were not made in 1840's—they still had the dies until 1870's. They were probably made in 1880's or 1890's when the coins were bringing fancy prices.

Question: Why were stars altered?

Newman: To confuse the variety.

Question: Did they know varieties then?

Newman: Yes, after the Haseltine Type Table was published in 1881.

Question: Were the coins made in America or England?

Newman: They could have been made in America. English collectors were buying choice American coins at the time. The best coins came back.

Here then, is the evidence in favor of the genuineness of the Zerbe-Werner-Ostheimer 1804 and 1805 silver dollars!

1) The two metallographical reports indicate no tampering, no change in hardness around date.
2) The alleged metallographical impossibility to move metal around without some detection.

In contrast here is the evidence that the two pieces are not genuine:

1) The similarity of the two coins to previous varieties: 1802 over 1 Bolender 4, and 1803 large date Bolender 6.

2) The state of the reverses are not chronological.

3) The impossibility to release the coins from a die.

4) The experts who considered the coins not genuine.

5) The 5 is stylistically unlike any other 5 in 1805 coins.

6) All opposite star points of this period are in line with one another, the stars in these coins are tampered with.

7) The minute die breaks could not be duplicated.

8) The reported reversal of silver dollar expert M. H. Bolender.

There is where the controversy stands. But it is not a controversy between people as A. J. Ostheimer explained, it is a controversy between truth and ignorance.

"And truth is what we want!" he said.

The full text of Newman's talk on the Zerbe pieces will be published in Coin World at a later date.

As for the rest of the story on all 1804 dollars, we just have to wait for the new book, written by Eric Newman, Kenneth Bressett, Walter Breen and Lynn Glaser, to be released by Whitman Publishing Company soon.

Business Good; Staffer Hired

Aubrey Sloan has recently joined the Old Pueblo Stamp and Coin Shop as manager of the coin department, James Reynolds, owner of the Tucson, Ariz., business announces.

Reynolds said increasing interest and activity among coin collectors made possible the addition of a coin specialist.

Sloan has been a collector for the past 15 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Ostheimer 3rd and their four-month-old daughter, Margaret, paused for a photograph in Atlanta just before they left to return to their Philadelphia home. Mrs. Ostheimer holds the controversial 1804 and 1805 silver dollars.

1804 Dollar Speech

A numismatic bombshell was dropped by Eric Newman at the educational program of the American Numismatic Association last week!

It has long been rumored in the coin field that the 1804 dollars were not made in the early part of the 1800's. But not until this speech did the American collector have any inkling of how it is known.

Dick Johnson

Newman poured many hours of study into the questionable 1804 dollar, king of American rarities. He has been assisted by some top level numismatic research assistants, Kenneth Bressett, Walter Breen and Lynn Glaser.

They have collaborated on a book on the 1804 dollar problem which should appear immediately since the American collector's interest in the subject has been stimulated.

To understand the explanation behind the 1804 dollar's history, Newman first had to explain how coins were manufactured in that early period. This had to be contrasted with a later period, plus comparing the coins themselves.

Details of how the edge lettering was produced in the 1804 period was explained: by means of two tracks, each with half of the lettering, one stationary and one mobile. As the coin was pressed between the two tracks it took the lettering from each, overlapping slightly.

The situation with the borders was also important. Because of the lettered edge produced by the tracks, the coin was slightly squeezed, accomplishing what we call today "upsetting."

After the introduction of the steam coinage press in 1836 the edges were produced in a different manner: a planchet was placed inside a collar and when the dies struck, the metal expanded to the collar.

Evidence of border dots on 1804 specimens similar to those on the Gobrecht dollars 1836 to 1839, believed caused by the method of steam press striking, give support for the evidence that all 1804 dollars were struck about 1840.

The inside border of dots on the 1804 dollars is a similar style to the 1836 period and not the radial style used in American silver coinage of the first quarter of the early 19th century, according to Newman.

Further evidence is the fact that the puncheons were still among the mint tools in 1836. And that the 4 has no crosslet in the dollars, as it does in all other denominations struck in that year.

The case that Newman presents is certainly strong that all 1804 dollars were made after 1836. His speech in Atlanta will long be remembered in numismatic annals for his words:

"The real 1804 dollar problem is that no 1804 dollar exists!"

Newman's examination and explanation of the Zerbe-Werner-Ostheimer 1804 and 1805 silver dollars was revealing. Here again, he built strong support for the theory that the two coins were altered from 1802 and 1803 specimens.

Experts and dealers had allegedly disclaimed the pieces before, but Newman's statements are the first knowledge of the investigation needed to show that they are, in his words:

"Masterpieces of deception."

Letters To The Editor

I just read your column about robbery, thefts etc. It is what I have been trying to find out for a long time. Somehow I haven't read "Coin World" well enough or it didn't dawn on me that you could get coin insurance until your fine column in Aug. 18 issue, Page 28. I do appreciate it and I called my insurance man immediately.

Mrs. Elvina I. Wilson
Harbor City, Calif.

Thank you very much for your continuing support of exonism in the pages of your journal. What you have done for our society and for the general welfare of collectors of medals, tokens, paper money et cetera has been of incalculable benefit so far.

You have handled our press releases with speed and understanding — I doubt you could have done more for paid display advertising. As a result you have many firm friends in the area.

In your editorial of May 18th, entitled "Private Medals", you tackled in print what many of your colleagues have skirted too long. Your considered opinion, I'm sure, is shared by a great many of your readers just as it will be disagreed with many times over by others. Knowing the source of a statement lends the words much credence, and we all know your sincere efforts on behalf of medallic art have not been based on commercialism or on hasty opinion.

I know neither Mr. Herst nor his publication, "Herst's Outbursts". However, he has a point whether he realizes it or not. The great American medallists of the past just as surely strove to attain some measure of profit from their ventures as the medal-makers of today.

Elder, Sage, Bolen, Idler and all the rest produced medallic tokens, replicas, struck copies, fantasies, so-called dollars and half-dollars, politicals etc. which are recognized today as fine examples of a by-gone era. From surviving specimens, though, there is little similarity between their die-work and some of the emissions of today. Also, the medals of the Elders and Bolens were issued in very limited quantities, and this is an important difference.

Everything you said was true, but I'd like to inject a note of caution. Mr. Herst represents the thinking of many others of our generation concerning the "Type of leech who has found the coin field easy pickings", to use his words. We, and our posterity, can only judge each medal on its individual merits.

We should neither castigate in toto, nor defend en bloc. Medals are here to stay, as they have been from ancient times, and medals and coins cannot be dissociated. The medal collecting fraternity does not give up its right to lambast the leeches merely because it favors medals per se; indeed, it is its duty to root out the rank commercialism, the false advertising and the cheap artwork in its field.

Russell Rulau
Secretary, Southern Calif.
Exonumist Society

At one time or another, each of us interested in the field of numismatics have read about the "lucky" finds of others. Well, on several occasions, I have been just a little in doubt as to the validity of these statements. After my experience, I'm ready to believe anything.

Some time ago I purchased a semi-complete set of Lincoln cents at a very nominal cost. Upon examination of these coins, I found that most of the coins I needed were there except the 1909-SVDB. After up grading my coins, I decided to trade or sell my duplicates.

As I had just looked at two beautiful 1909-SVDB's (uncirculated) today, I decided to go over my coins once more. Sure enough, the 1909-S turned out to be a 1909-S VDB in good plus condition and I almost sold it for $10.50. The old adage "The key coins are still around" still holds true. If you look long enough and hard enough, eventually you will find what you want. Good luck to other collectors.

Jerry Shroyer
Columbus, Ohio

Your advertisers are the most suspicious bunch that I ever dealt with. For many years an order was filled at once and you could expect delivery within a week. Now it takes at least two weeks after they have cleared your check. Either coin collectors have cheated the dealers badly or the dealers are afraid they will be cheated.

When I was running advertisements I took in hundreds of checks. I sent the coins the day the check was received and never had a bad check. In those days an A.N.A. number meant something.

In the good old days a dealer would send coins for inspection even tho a remittance was not included. In this manner I got to know a good many of them and they were found to be a good, honest and sincere bunch of real numismatists. Do you suppose this change could be due to the new deal, the fair deal, or new horizons?

W. B. Coston
Hornell, N. Y.

I'd like to make a prediction: Unscrupulous practices among coin dealers, large and small, have become so commonplace that before long there will be a crack-down by state and federal authorities. I base this on my own experience and those of other honest collectors.

There are many state laws against obtaining money under false pretenses. There are federal laws against using the mails to defraud. They are being violated regularly in the sale of coins.

By no means are all the guilty "small fry." They include some of the oldest and largest firms. If the coin collecting fraternity can not purge itself of the dishonest ones, then the authorities eventually will.

There's another side of the coin, of course—the dishonest buyers—but this had to do only with the racketeer dealers.

Horace Jones, Editor
Lyons, Kan., Daily News

Your readers might be interested in the next step the dealers who advertise they deal only in unopened brown envelopes that contain proof coin sets, are considering.

As it stands now, several of the silly ones insist that you do not open the envelope to look at the coins you have paid for. I understand that 100 set lots must now be in the mint sealed carton. Cartons of 100 that have been opened are course would be unsalable.

Naturally no one would want to buy any single proof sets that some previous person has looked at, or any boxes of 100 that have been opened, as this spoils them for the next buyer.

I am looking for outer space coins with double dies, no dies, dancing "D's", if they are in proof condition or uncirculated mint sealed bags. Maybe some of your readers can help me out! Thank you.

Geo. M. Chandler II
Indianapolis, Ind.

I have been asked by fellow collectors and dealers as to the drawing power of the "Coin World". I can answer this question in only one way, "Fabulous!" In fact I had to discontinue my ads for 8 weeks to catch up and orders are still coming in from past ads.

My operation is different from most advertisers in that cash money is not essential. I accept Raleigh coupons, used U.S. commemorative stamps, mint stamps, labels, wrappers, coins in exchange for a full line of Meghig, Whitman and Library of Coin albums, books, medals, supplies, Lincoln cents and Jefferson nickels, etc.

I have read all the gripes about your raise in classified word ad rates but in my estimation they are not "out of line," especially for those advertisers who have something to offer at a fair price.

Albert Ostler
Butte, Mont.

I enjoy your paper very much but would like to see more info on circulated coins as I imagine there are quite a few circulated collectors as well as uncirculated and all of us cannot afford uncirculated only. I trust you will not consider this a beef.

Benjamin F. Nyquist
Plainview, N. Y.

Enclosed is $5.00 for a two-year extension of my subscription...I have one suggestion to your most interesting coin paper. Granted you do get many laudatory letters, some to the point of being insipid, how about a decrease?

T. J. Totushek
College Park, Md.

To my mind it (Coin World) is the most live-wire and progressive numismatic publication in America. You are rendering the collectors a most valuable service. I, for one, will be very happy to cooperate with you at any time.

PRESIDENTIAL ART PRESENTS LINCOLN MEDAL

We at Presidential Art Medals, Inc., take pride in introducing the new Lincoln medal . . . second in the series of finely sculptured, high quality Presidential Art Medals. This medal, like all medals in the series, will be struck by MEDALLIC ART COMPANY, the only American company devoted exclusively to sculptured bas-relief. The intricate design and sculptured work was done by MR. RALPH MENCONI, a sculptor internationally recognized for his abilities in full portrait and high relief work. A leaflet describing his work accompanies each medal.

This is a CONTINUING PROGRAM and three or four medals a year will be struck until the series of all Presidents is complete. New medals will be struck thereafter as Presidents are inaugurated. This exclusive offering will be a treasured possession whether you desire only one, or the entire series.

Among the more important reasons contributing to the increasing value of the precious medals is the fact that PRODUCTION IS LIMITED to the quantities shown below and unusually HIGH STANDARDS OF WORKMANSHIP are strictly maintained. The PRACTICAL SIZE of the medal (slightly larger than a half dollar) makes it particularly well suited to display in an album, which will be offered about December 1.

The Abraham Lincoln medal is offered as follows:

Platinum (pure)	25 serially numbered pieces	Sold Out
Silver (.999+)	6500 serially numbered pieces	$10.00 ea.
Bronze		$ 2.50 ea.

Dealer inquiries are invited.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST ON THE PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY MEDAL.

Special Party At Dantone Home

One of the "extra" parties held during American Numismatic Association convention week in Atlanta was the affair given by Mr. and Mrs. Blaise Dantone at their handsome home on Ridgewood Road where they welcomed 300 visitors from all over the United States.

Kathryn Grayburn, the Atlanta Constitution society editor, wrote in her "Entre Nous" column the following account of the party:

"Invitations to the fabulous affair were wafer thin cigarette lighters engraved on one side with a map directing the guests to the residence. On the other side appeared the actual invitation to the party.....

"Guests gathered on the pine-spiked lawn in the rear of the home for cocktails around the kidney-shaped swimming pool. An organist was playing "Dixie" from the patio.

"Among those present was Eric P. Newman of St. Louis, Mo., owner of one of the original three Confederate half dollars now in existence.....

"A. Kosoff was glimpsed showing a chain of medals to Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Freeman of Newport, Ark. The links in the chain indicated that the wearer had attended 25 A.N.A. conventions.

"Glimpsed at the party: Outgoing president of the A.N.A. Rear Admiral Oscar Dodson, USN (Ret.) with Mrs. Dodson who was gowned in printed silk, chatting with the Gerge Todds. Mrs. Todd wore a becoming gray and white printed chiffon model..... Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morris Jr. of Birmingham, owners of one of Alabama's finest coin collections. Mrs. Morris wore beaded blue linen with a white sweater..... Oil man P. K. Anderson of Goetbo, Okla., receiving congratulations on being first vice president-elect of the A.N.A..... C. C. Shroyer of Fremont, Ohio, being congratulated as incoming president along with Lewis M. Reagan, of Wichita, Kansas, who is general secretary.

"The host, whose magnificent coin collection includes a complete set of Dahlonga gold, began collecting as a hobby, inspired by the late H. L. Morris. "Although his coin collection was small, Morris was noted for his outstanding Confederate stamp collection. His son, Jack Morris, was glimpsed with his chic wife, whose pink gown accented her sun tan. His daughter, Mrs. Cecil Davis, wore a flowered model."

Miss Grayburn, a charming addition to the party herself, couldn't stay to see the darling of the Dantone household, Sarah Alice, who will soon be 10, in her pretty party frock. She doffed it later for her swim suit, and was transformed into a pretty little mermaid for the guests.

Jackie Kennedy's Mount Vernon party had nothing on the Dantone buffet later in the evening—with its huge platters of true Southern fried chicken, succulent trimmings and desserts that called for seconds because they were so pretty and delicious everybody wanted to try two....The centerpiece for the long tables where the guests were seated were arrangements of mounded Georgia peaches, of course.

And the good talk that ebbed and flowed as smoothly as the good fellowship of the party revolved around numismatics. Well, almost all of it.

The feminine guests all found an excuse to wander into the muted, lovely interior of the Dantone home. Some of them were lucky enough to be given a guided tour by the host's mother, Mrs. John Dantone.

The traditional Southern hospitality was reflected in all of the affairs connected with the convention—from the pre-convention cocktail party on Tuesday to the post-banquet activities.

The ladies enjoyed the fall fashion show by Muses on Wednesday evening in the hotel, a continental breakfast and fashion show at Rich's department store on Friday, and the series of tours to Stone Mountain, Cyclorama, Kennesaw Mountain Battle field and of the city itself.

Those who made a trip to Dahlonga gold mines where they panned for gold and ate at the famous Smith House called this convention treat one of the best. The Atlanta Coin Club and the P.N.G. were hosts to pre-banquet parties on Saturday.

Trends Of Today's U.S. Coin Values

Good Participation In Auction

By Jim Kelly

333 West First St., Dayton 2, Ohio

The American Numismatic Association's 70th convention is now history and joins the other traditions of that historic shrouded atmosphere of Atlanta. This was one of the largest and most active conventions which I have attended or had the privilege of conducting the auction.

Jim Kelly

The three sessions were all well attended and interest has heightened by the large mail response to the auction material which, incidentally, was aimed at the wider number of collectors rather than a few. Specialized and dramatic pieces make good conversation but do not spread the ownership of numismatic items. There were 1,500 participants in mail and floor bidding.

With the emphasis upon U. S. coins, it was most interesting to note the activity in the Canadian coin section and also in the Confederate state currency section.

There was a full crowd in attendance at all three sessions in the Pompeian room of the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel; in fact the attendance and interest were so high that we ran out of our 104-page catalogs before the end of the sale and we had more than usual for A.N.A. auctions.

A list of the sale results is available from my office within a short period.

George Todd, general chairman of the convention, said his committee was well pleased with the auction and the fine reception of the type of material offered which was designed to afford wider participation than ever.

One feature of the auction was the sale of the No. 1 silver Kennedy and Lincoln medals of the Presidential Art Medals, Inc., of Dayton, O. Each of these silver medals brought $110 and the entire proceeds, including the auctioneer's commission, were contributed to the A.N.A. building fund. George Maples, of Florida, was the buyer of both.

It has been indicated by the Presidential Medals firm that the number one silver of each president will be sold in this manner.

Fuller details on the auction and specific items will be mentioned in future columns in Coin World.

As in any legitimate auction sale, there were a number of bargains but by and large, the entire U. S. series brought higher prices than expected. It was an outstanding convention from a business standpoint, plus the fact that it was also one of the most friendly and enjoyable we have ever attended.

Banquet Highlighted By Presentation Of Awards

A series of recognitions came to convention figures at the Saturday night banquet, closing event of the 70th annual A.N.A. convention in Atlanta.

Louis S. Werner, sergeant at arms of the A.N.A. for a quarter of a century, who announced his retirement earlier in the convention, was named sergeant at arms emeritus, and presented with a certificate of recognition honoring his service to numismatics and the A.N.A. John Gabbarron, Lincoln, Nebr., was named as Werner's successor.

When R. E. Cox Jr. of Fort Worth was given the Howland Wood memorial plaque for the best-in-show, his exhibit was called a superb arrangement, displayed in an attractive and artistic manner.

Blaise J. Dantone, of Atlanta, presented Governor and Mrs. Ernest Vandiver of Georgia to the banquet guests.

The new president, C. C. Shroyer, awarded Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.) his past president's medal during the banquet.

The two past presidents attending the convention were introduced to the more than 500 guests—M. Vernon Sheldon, of Chicago, and Leonel Panosh, of San Diego.

A good fellowship plaque was presented to General Chairman George M. Todd of Atlanta, who acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Mrs. Russell Cunningham Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., "star" of the Educational Program of the convention, was presented with a special gift, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. John Morris of Homewood, Ala.

Pioneer Member Recalls Influence Of Dr. Heath

"Just go on there in the closet and help yourself to back numbers of The Numismatist, son—pick out a whole set."

Dr. George Heath, first editor of the official American Numismatic Association publication, thus encouraged a young Monroe, Michigan, boy to begin his career as a numismatist.

That boy — Edwin W. Williams of Chicago—was in Atlanta for the 70th annual convention of the A.N.A. where he was observing his 55th year as a member of the organization.

Williams, who presented $100 to the executive board of the A.N.A. to be contributed to the building fund in Atlanta, still remembers vividly his association with Dr. Heath.

"I was collecting large cents—I got started through Donald Heath (Dr. George Heath's son) and I needed some reference material," Williams recalled. "So I asked Dr. Heath. And he directed me to the closet."

The Chicago numismatist said he later had the set bound in red Moroccan leather, and still later it became the property of a Chicago museum.

Williams smilingly countered the question of his age with "Let's just say I'll be drawing social security and a pension very shortly." He is currently on vacation from his duties at a Chicago trucking company.

Eventually he intends to retire to New Mexico where he recently purchased some land.

An avid traveler—he was in Washington, D. C., before Atlanta, and enroute to New Orleans—Williams is a specialist in most areas of numismatics, but currently he is enjoying a study of numismatic errors, he said. He paused at an exhibit of jade pattern coins in the exhibit hall and whipped out a specimen from his pocket for comparison, interrupting the interview for a momentary check.

"Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you I stopped and toured the Bureau of Printing and Engraving in Washington," the venerable numismatist said.

Williams does not deplore roll collecting in what he describes as "the most fascinating hobby in the world." "Must be," he said, "from the number that have gone into it."

"Why discourage kids for roll collecting—?" he said, "they're just pulling it out of circulation..."

And then he bent low to check the next exhibit with all the eagerness, alertness and interest of a kid himself.....

Detroit Hosts Next Session

Atlanta convention-goers learned of plans for the 1962 A.N.A.-C.N.A. international convention in Detroit in a most pleasant way—two charming young ladies, Miss Christine Digby, right, and Audrey Hendricks, both of Atlanta, aided in publicizing next year's event. Bill Kilgore, left, of Birmingham, Ala., and Ken Painter, Phoenix, Ariz., are making plans to go to Michigan! The 1962 sessions under the direction of Earl Schill of Detroit will be held in the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel.

Bradfield Reports Numismatist's Growth

"Many changes have occurred in the field of American numismatics in the last few years, not the least of which is an increasing number of outlets for coin collector news and information," said Elston G. Bradfield, editor of The Numismatist in his annual report to the convention of the American Numismatic Association in Atlanta.

"To the old line—occasional, quarterly and monthly periodicals have been added twice-a-month and weekly newspapers," continued Bradfield. "All are intended to meet different requirements of the ever-strengthening ranks of American collectors and do not affect the conservative aims and purposes of The Numismatist."

"We say this," added the editor, "despite the comment by one of our friends and correspondents who wrote, 'I note an improvement in The Numismatist lately, which may be due to the coin newspapers keeping you on your toes.'"

"We thank the writer but state that a part time Editor of a monthly publication would be a little foolhardy, indeed, to 'compete' for spot news or other fast-breaking features.

"Our basic thought," explained Bradfield, "is to present our readers with accurate, well written and original articles of permanent numismatic value, numismatic news and stories of historic as well as current interest, official American Numismatic Association announcements and reports, and other items of national importance. "Even so, hardly a month goes by without some 'firsts' appearing in The Numismatist. Perhaps you might be amazed how many there are!" concluded Bradfield.

Bradfield also reported to the A.N.A. Convention that the steady climb in the Association's membership and the growth of coin collecting in general are reflected in the number of copies of The Numismatist printed each month. Currently, this figure is over 28,000.

Of these, more than 23,000 go to members, 2,000 to library, museum, and individual non-member subscribers, and 3,000 to newsstand distribution.

Bradfield expressed his appreciation to Glenn B. Smedley, assistant to the editor, for "the efficient manner in which he handled club news and related correspondence, and a willingness to undertake such assignments as the Editor gave him from time to time." Smedley also writes the feature "Numismatic Vignettes and occasional book reviews.

A.N.A. Headquarters Proposed

Colorado City, Club Join Forces

Formal presentation of a proposal for the American Numismatic Association to buy the four million dollar Trianon Palace in Colorado Springs, Colo., as its official headquarters was made during a business session at the Atlanta convention by Ralph Cleaver, president of the Zebulon Pike Coin Club.

Cleaver, who acted as spokesman for the club, the city of Colorado Springs and its officials, first gave a detailed report of the possibilities of the mansion, and then presented Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.) with a check for $208 for the association's building fund.

"Words cannot describe its suitability, both in structure and location," said Cleaver as he urged consideration of the purchase of the Trianon.

"Located in the beautiful and exclusive Broadmoor area at the foot of Pikes Peak, it would meet every present requirement of the A.N.A. and any future needs," said the spokesman as he described its climate, surroundings and central location as "ideal."

He accompanied his offer with letters from Mayor William C. Henderson, James D. Russell, president of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, and other city leaders.

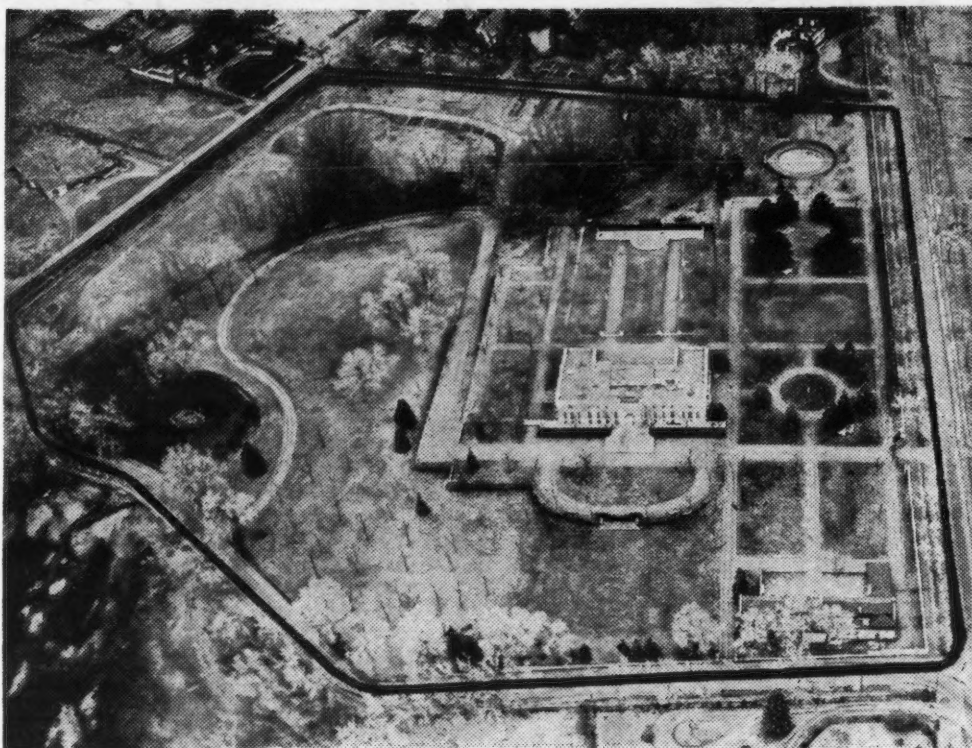

The property is owned by the Trianon Foundation, a Colorado non-profit organization, Cleaver said. The foundation would accept $650,000 for the land and building, he disclosed as he cited an appraisal figure of $850,000.

John W. Metzger, chairman of the board of trustees of the Foundation, furnished Cleaver with a complete list of expenses and descriptions to present to the A.N.A. membership. All of the material was attractively bound in a large volume, highlighted by a series of photographs, and presented by the Zebulon Pike Coin Club to the A.N.A. executive board for future study.

Cleaver said the Trianon Palace is the only faithful reproduction of Le Grande Trianon in Versailles, France, home of Louis XIV.

It is 140 feet in length and is generally in the form of a "U" forming a three-sided court at the west of the building. The estate includes approximately 23 acres of terraced landscaped ground through which a mountain stream flows, emptying into a small lake.

tury elegant French artistry and the elegance of the period of the Louis.

The museum room has as its focal point 16th century Flemish hand-carved linenfold walnut paneling with an elaborate mantel of the same design reaching to the beamed ceiling.

The library of hand-carved paneling is graced with a balcony protected by a wrought-iron railing, reached by a spiral, wrought-iron staircase.

Material for the external walls above the basement is dull white enamel terra cotta. Basement walls are of the finest white stone. Such care was used in making the terra cotta for the exterior walls that it has the appearance of white marble.

The court, formed by the U, is paved with marble, facing onto a formal garden surrounded by four marble statues, representing the four seasons. At the end of the garden is a fountain which is illuminated by colored lights at night.

In 1919 views of the mansion were exhibited by Maclaren in the Royal Scottish Academy and afterward by request of the then president of the academy, Sir George Washington Browne. Later the views were made a permanent part of the College of Art-Edinburgh collection.

Furnishings of the palace were installed by Blevins Davis, a New York millionaire, who bought the home from Mrs. Baldwin several Ralph Cleaver, president of the Zebulon Pike Coin Club, Colorado Springs, Colo., backs an offer with a pledge here. He climaxed presentation of a plan for A.N.A. headquarters at Colorado Springs with a check for $208 to go into the A.N.A.'s building fund. A smiling president, Admiral O. H. months after her marriage to Russian Prince Zourab Tchkotoua in 1949. The estate was once offered as a possible second summer white house for Calvin Coolidge. In later years it was considered as a possible gift to President Dwight Eisenhower for the same purpose.

The main building, 148 feet long runs north and south. Wings are 30 by 88 feet deep and enclose a marble terrace on the west. Basement is fully finished together with gas steam-heated plant, storage rooms, paneled room, library, utility rooms, shop, large assembly room or recreation area.

The main floor was a large morning room, dining room, salon, main drawing room, panel library and master sitting room, all 22 feet high. The eastern section contains bedrooms, baths, breakfast room, rotunda, kitchen, pantries, vault.

Statistics Show Big Increase

In August, 1958, when Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.) assumed the presidency of the American Numismatic Association its membership stood at 13,382. Today it is 22,374, a 67 per cent increase in four years.

In the same month of 1958 there were 295 affiliated local clubs. Now there are 700 affiliated clubs.

Cash assets of the A.N.A. were $69,610.51 in August, 1958. As of June 30 this year cash assets were $107,237.54.

Accomplishments of the largest collector-numismatist organization in the world during the past year have included a variety of activities. These were described for members at the annual business session of the A.N.A. at the Atlanta convention.

The A.N.A. building fund was established in a trust agency agreement with National Bank of Detroit with the value of the fund standing at $27,300.

In May a new A.N.A. charter was granted by the Federal Court of the District of Columbia to replace the one expiring in 1962. The new charter is perpetual, eliminating the necessity of a future president seeking a renewal in 2011 A. D. Requirement that the principal office of the Association be maintained in Washington, D. C. has been eliminated.

"The vigorous leadership of Charles Johnson, the expert assistance of Elston Bradfield and advice from a fine committee of numismatic scholars" resulted in the reprint of selected articles which have appeared in The Numismatist over the last 70 years, retiring president Admiral O. H. Dodson told A.N.A. members.

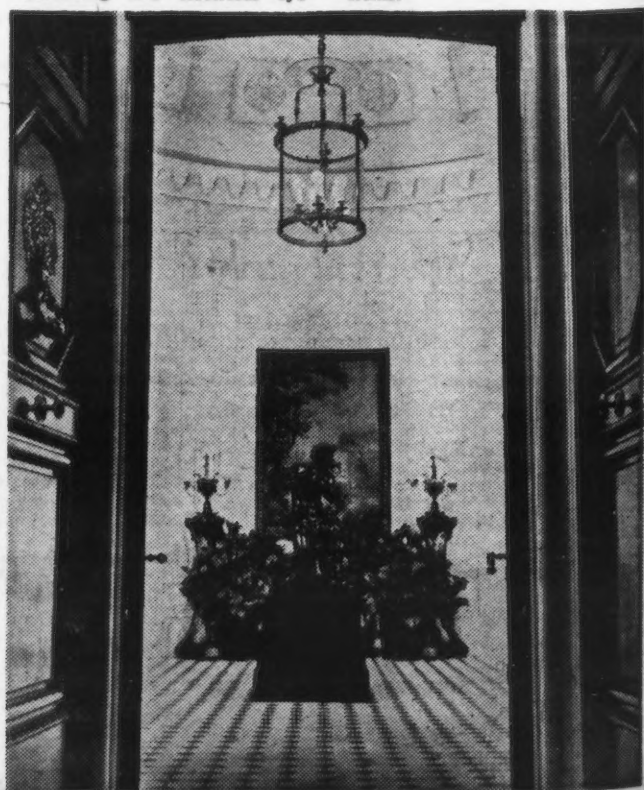

The Whitman Publishing Company, as a public service, printed the volumes at cost. A total of 22,000 copies have been sold.

Other major achievements during the past year include reprint of "Introduction to Coin Collecting," appointment of the Dr. Judd committee, cooperation with the People to People program.

Items are reported in first class condition. Grounds are heavily wooded with fine trees, shrubbery and other landscaping. The 1960 taxes totaled $7,327.80. The Foundation took possession August 15, 1960, and has spent approximately $150 per month on heat, light and power. Maintenance averages about $150 a month in addition to caretakers' salaries. Price quoted includes drapes, curtains, shades, carpeting, but not art items.

slapped with a two to four year term in Western Penitentiary, Pa., for burglary and receiving stolen goods. He was released May 18, 1957.

Coin World predicted in its August 4, 1960 edition that a giant coin theft racket had been hobbled with the arrest of Scasserra in Duncansville, Pa.

At that time, Scasserra, alias Lawrence Vecchio, was nabbed after an alert Duncansville, Pa. insurance man and coin collector, Edgar C. Magill, became suspicious as Scasserra attempted to sell him some coins. Scasserra was not convicted then.

Later Pleasant Hills, Pa., police arrested Scasserra on the charge of robbing the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Williams and stealing $4,000 worth of coins while they were attending a meeting of the Pittsburgh Numismatic Society on June 30, 1960.

This time Scasserra was convicted and was sent to Allegheny County Jail. Sentencing in this case was deferred until the Bamford trial could be completed.

Following the trial, Judge Cernone told Bamford and Williams to sort through the recovered coins—now in custody of County detectives—to determine which belong to each collection.

Philip Scasserra, Coin Crook No. 1, has run out of luck and is scheduled to remain behind bars for a long time.

Open Gates Of Excitement

Numismatics Full Of Fine Rewards

Junior Coin Collectors To Reap Harvest

By E. D. O. Neuce

In connection with Coin World's admirable decision to dedicate this issue to the Junior Collector, I am proud of the opportunity given me to participate in such a worthwhile venture.

There is a tendency on the part of some older collectors to shun the youngster who is attempting to enter the field of numismatics; but this tendency is fast disappearing and by the time the present Junior group advances to become Senior collectors this mild animosity will probably be forgotten. I hasten to say this tendency to shun is practiced only by those among us who have forgotten what it is like to be a youngster.

Entering the field of numismatics is like opening the gate to a wonderland of excitement. The farther one travels in this wonderland, the more enjoyable and exciting it becomes. Keep your travels along the road of coins full of honesty, sincerity and the love of sharing.

Because the significance of coin collecting varies with the individual, no single article written by me or anyone can adequately deal with the problems you may now be facing. Accordingly, I will deal with no particular phase of coin collecting in this column and you may extract the material which applies to your particular need.

First of all, it's not always the big collection that gives the greatest thrill. I would venture to say that very few enjoy numismatics more than I do, but the entire coin collection owned by me would look sick beside the collections of most.

It is my opinion that coin collecting alone is not the key to becoming a successful numismatist. Anyone can collect a group of coins and call himself a numismatist but there is far more to it than that, and it isn't so difficult as one might imagine.

The key word is "RESEARCH." You must locate and study numismatic literature of all descriptions. Also, you must study your collection. Determine its condition, its value and determine who designed this or that particular piece of money and why was the final design chosen.

Although this research will take a great deal of your spare time, it will be time spent doing something for which the reward will be greater than you can now picture. You won't have to do all this research overnight, nor within the next several years. Remember, you have plenty of time, and if you use part of it in research (as well as collecting coins and currency) you will one day find yourself counted among those who are real numismatists; you will find yourself envied by those who confine coin collecting to just that.

What reward can one expect for this type of numismatic work? Well, I have practiced what I preach and a few of the rewards enjoyed include: Seldom does a day pass without my receiving a letter from a collector; either a collector from the United States or from some foreign country. They question me on various phases of coin collecting; some questions I can answer and some I refer to others for an answer, because I have yet (after many years) to learn all there is to know about this wonderful hobby of ours.

The list of rewards enjoyed by me is endless, but they can all be summed up by the decision of the American Numismatic Association to award me the top individual award for work done to advance numismatics during the recent observance of National Coin Week.

The start of a new collection is pictured here when young Bill Johns walked into Ed's Coiner one day and requested information on how to begin a coin collection. Ed Neuce is presenting Johns with a Lincoln cent folder and is giving him the needed information.

Believe me, I am not bragging when I mention these things. I am only trying to point out there is something to shoot for besides the biggest collection in town.

By including plenty of research in your collection, there will be less chance of getting "stung" by one of the many coin sharks operating throughout the country today. There will be less chance of your spending hard earned money for a lot of worthless junk now flooding the numismatic market. What does it mean to numismatics that some fellow has a machine capable of mutilating a Lincoln cent into another kind of "sense" and offers it for sale at what is probably 90 per cent profit.

Now, an item such as the "sense" listed above would be fine in its place; and I think its place is on the carnival midway as a prize for the sucker who cannot keep his money where it belongs.

Sure, the fellow who dreams up these specials has to make a living, but believe me, you youngsters do not have to support him. If you must have a few "oddities" in your collection, get a hammer and chisel and cut them out yourself.

I'm just kidding about the hammer and chisel. Don't do it! Although recent developments would indicate otherwise, I am sure there is a penalty for this sort of nonsense, and if there isn't, there should be.

The above opinions should not be confused to mean that I am against collecting true Mint errors. There is a place in every collection for this type of coin. What I do contend, however, is that a coin mutilated outside the Mint is not a Mint error and if we ignore offers such as the one mentioned, numismatics will return to its rightful place.

One of the first steps in the world of coins should be joining a coin club. If your area has not organized a coin club as yet, then you can take the lead and see that one is organized. A great deal of satisfaction will be yours, knowing that you had a part in the organization of such a club.

Recently, here at Ed's Coiner, I received a letter from a young collector requesting information on forming a coin club in his hometown. This youngster, Steve White, lives at Terra Alta, West Virginia. Terra Alta is a small mountain community located approximately 35 miles from my home in Westover.

Steve had been reading my column (Ed's Coiner) in the Morgantown, W. Va., Dominion-News and was interested in immediate action toward having a coin club organized. I sent him a few ideas, along with an offer of assistance, and now Terra Alta has a coin club with 17 charter members, and young Steve is the club secretary.

A word of advice to the beginner: Your biggest start toward a collection will come from rolls obtained at various banks. When entering a bank to purchase a roll of coins, keep in mind that bank employees are not hired primarily to satisfy the needs of coin collectors. Most are happy to assist but if carried too far your hobby can become a source of trouble for the bank teller.

When you appear at the cashier's window, explain to him why you are there and upon receiving your order make yourself scarce. Don't examine your coins in the bank lobby (unless a place has been set aside for this purpose) but take them home for leisurely examination. You would be surprised at the number of semi-key coins missed during hurried inspections. Also, make your bank visits with proper intervals.

I would like to recommend caution to the Junior collector. Don't go wild as a beginner. Slow down! Be careful of what you buy or trade for. You've got a lifetime of numismatics ahead of you; enjoy it to its fullest.

As in anything worthwhile, there will be those among you who will be out to take advantage of your lack of numismatic knowledge. Therefore, I again urge you to read all available numismatic literature and when you think you have learned something of value, pass it on to your collector friends. It is only through knowledge that you will avoid being "taken in."

When I was a Junior collector I discovered that coin collecting is the greatest of all hobbies. I also discovered that it can be an expensive hobby if one is not careful. Occasionally something would happen and I would have to dig out a few choice coins and spend them. Sometime my entire collection would disappear this way. I realized something would have to be done if I wanted to enjoy numismatics.

Just as I advise you to do, I searched out every available

New Coin Club members Bill Johns, right, and Pat Kiger, both of Morgantown, W. Va., are members of the Mountaineer Coin Club in that city. Both joined the club after reading Ed's Coiner, a coin column in the Morgantown Dominion-News written by Ed Neuce.

First reward for a new collector is Bill Johns again receiving the Boy Scout merit badge for coin collecting. This badge was earned by Johns after only three months of coin collecting, counseled along the way by Ed Neuce of the Morgantown Dominion-News.

piece of numismatic literature. I read and re-read all this printed information and soon discovered that this was a part of numismatics that I could enjoy at little cost. I also discovered that having knowledge of certain coins is almost as much fun as actually possessing the coin itself. I figured if I can't have the coin, I'll settle for the next best thing, and soon I was of the opinion that the next best thing could be just as interesting as the best thing.

I hope you youngsters can follow my trend of thinking because I certainly do not want to confuse you at this stage of the game. You will run into enough confusion as you advance without any help from me.

Also, I do not mean to imply that I am an expert on the subject of coins and currency. I am only trying to pass on what little I do know about our wonderful

Trends Of Today's Canadian Coin Values

Canadian Coin Interest Is Rising

By J. E. Charlton
80 Richmond St., East
Toronto, Ont., Canada

The American Numismatic Association's convention at Atlanta attracted Canadian coin dealers from Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg and those interviewed by this correspondent reported excellent two-way business with good sales plus purchase of scarce material.

I was also pleased with the activity at my bourse table and the opportunity to meet so many collectors and dealers. Most interest appeared to be in the key small cents and large 5c pieces. The demand for the 1925 up to $12 and the 1926 Far 6 to $15.

Proof-like sets, large cents and paper money were also popular and although seldom available, both the 1908 and 1937 specimen sets were on sale at one or two bourse tables. Other rarities to change hands at the dealers tables were uncirculated 50c pieces of 1870, 1872, 1881 and 1936. These all sold above catalogue value.

Although some of the Canadian coins in the A.N.A. auction did not bring estimated prices, I noticed that the following sold above catalogue value: the silver dollar of 1938 at $23; the 25c piece of 1927 at $175; nickels of 1922, 1923, and 1928 at $20.50; and a 1948 10c piece at $30.

The Canadian Numismatic Association's convention at Hamilton is to have a much larger selection of Canadian material at its auction, naturally, and will no doubt indicate the trend of prices for the fall and winter months.

Thief Scatters Loot Over Countryside

Coins and stamps stolen from the home of Henry Clissold, Bound Brooks, N. J. have been turning up in neighboring South Bound Brook and Martinsville, police chief Anthony J. Graziano of Bound Brook disclosed.

The stolen stamps were valued at more than $3,000, and the value of the pilfered coins has not been determined. Coins included early U.S. items, in addition to large early American banknotes.

Detective Peter Bender revealed that entry had been gained when the thief broke a window in the rear door to undo the latch. Nothing in the house has been disturbed other than the stamps and coins. Clissold and his wife were at the seashore when the burglary occurred.

However, the thief began leaving a trail of his loot all over the countryside. Stamps and foreign currency were recovered on Neuman's Lane, Martinsville, by Edward Fialka. Richard Kilough found a number of the coins on the south bank of the Delaware and Raritan Canal.

Chief Graziano appealed to all persons in the area to report all finds of coins and stamps, or information regarding the theft. He promised that all disclosures would be held in the strictest secrecy.

A coin collection valued by its owner at $3,500 was stolen from a living room closet, recently.

John Roderick, of New Bedford, Mass., awoke one morning to discover that a foot square metal box containing his coins was missing. The collection included $10 and $20 gold pieces, and complete sets of Jefferson nickels, and Indian head cents.

Roderick had spent 10 years in building up his collection. It was not insured.

A youngster's coin collection valued at $100 was stolen from the home of Edward E. Wall II of Newport Beach, Calif., on August 8.

The coins were located in a child's safe in the bedroom of Wall's son, Edward II, 12. Wall said the home was unlocked while the family was at the beach.

A $4,000 coin collection belonging to Thomas A. Sodaro Jr. of Phoenix, Ariz. was stolen recently while the family was away from home only 45 minutes.

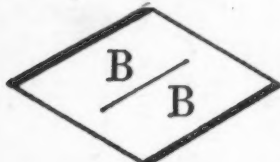

Burglars slipped a latch on a house door and forced a lock on a closet in which the collection was kept. The 14-year-old collector's father, Thomas A. Sodaro Sr., said the thieves also took suitcase and a wastebasket in which to carry the bulky, heavy loot.

Collection consisted primarily of uncirculated U. S. coins.

South Bend, Ind., police are investigating the theft of 225 coins, valued at more than $250, from the home of Dr. Mary C. Turgi, a local dentist.

Dr. Turgi told police that the coins, along with five coin books, were taken from a desk within the past three weeks. Among the missing coins were 70 half-dol-

BEST NEWS IN YEARS FOR COIN COLLECTORS

Toivo Johnson takes a great deal of pleasure in bringing to his coin friends, the first beautiful medal in the COIN MEDALS series,

The Official AUGUSTUS SAINT-GAUDENS COMMEMORATIVE MEDAL

While this medal will be ready for delivery in about 30 days, we do not as yet have pictures of it for publication. But we will do the best we can by word description.

The idea or theme of COIN MEDALS, is to commemorate great coin designers, the men who made the coins we collect. Other medals to follow, equally as beautiful as the Saint-Gaudens now offered, will commemorate Barber, Morgan, Brenner, and other names familiar to all collectors.

Each medal will depict on the obverse, the finest work of the coin designer. The reverse will have data pertinent to his life and work. Of course, these famous designers did nice work in coins, but in medallics they could really give free rein to their imagination and ability. In a coin, the sculptor or designer is hampered by the small area of the coin, by the lettering and mottoes he is required to fit into the small area, and by the low relief, as the coins have to stack.

The Official Augustus Saint-Gaudens Medal is issued with the approval of the Trustees of The Saint-Gaudens Memorial in Cornish, New Hampshire. Two of the bronze medals, and the Number 1 and Number 2 of the serially numbered silver medals, will be put on permanent display in the Memorial Museum. These will be seen by thousands of visitors each year.

Now, to describe the Augustus Saint-Gaudens Medal,

OBVERSE: One of the finest medallic works of Saint-Gaudens, done by him in 1892, perhaps at the height of his career, for the Worlds Columbian Exposition. This medal is a private award medal, and as such, is very rare. It is Saint-Gaudens magnificent interpretation of the Discovery of America, showing Columbus stepping on the soil of the New World. Columbus' arms are outstretched, in humble gratitude to the Creator, for making his long voyage successful. A plaster cast of this Columbus is on display in the Memorial.

REVERSE: A depiction of Saint-Gaudens beautiful home and studio "Aspet", in Cornish, New Hampshire, where he lived, worked, and died in 1907. In the sky over the house, like a setting sun, is shown his famous Roman date Double Eagle, acknowledged the most beautiful American coin. This is truly an artistic presentation, as the sun did set on the famous sculptor's career the same year he designed the coin.

The Saint-Gaudens medal is being struck by The Metal Arts Company of Rochester, New York, master craftsmen in bronze and other metals. Any town, city, coin club, etc. desiring to commemorate some event with anything from a token to the finest medal, will do well to contact this company.

The Saint-Gaudens medal will be of 3 inch diameter, as all COIN MEDALS to follow. It weighs about 7½ ounces in bronze, and the .999 pure silver medal, being of the same thickness, weighs over 8 ounces. The silver medals will be serially numbered on the edge, and the issue will be limited to not over 5000. This is only one-half the number of Hawaii Half Dollars minted, and with the wide-spread interest COIN MEDALS will have, I can sincerely predict the Saint-Gaudens silver medal will be more difficult to obtain in a few years than the coin mentioned.

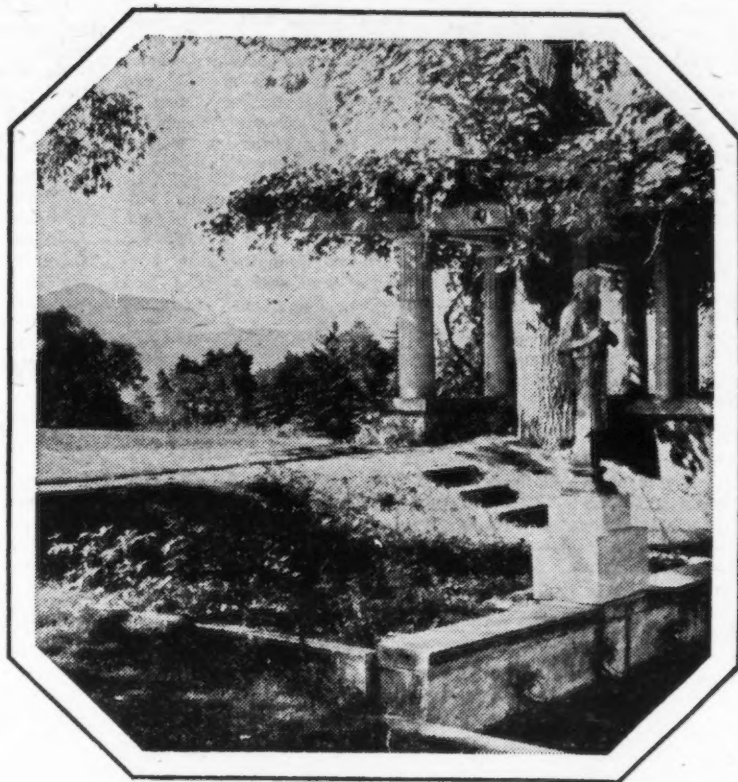

You can order now, for delivery in about 30 days.

The bronze medal is $5.50, or two for $10.00.

With appropriate holders and stands to be available later, two medals will afford a simultaneous view of the obverse and reverse.

Introductory price on the silver medal is a comparatively low $27.50

So we suggest you order now, as it has been proven that the first silver medals in a series are the most difficult to obtain later. Silver medal orders will receive acknowledgement of the order, with indication of the serial number of your medal.

SAINT - GAUDENS MUSEUM AT CORNISH NEW HAMPSHIRE

Illustrated above, is a corner of Saint-Gaudens studio in his former Home "Aspet". Every coin collector should visit this Memorial to our greatest sculptor, when his vacation takes him to the New Hampshire area. Therein, you will see many of his works.

The Memorial is directly across the Connecticut River from the beautiful town of Windsor, Vermont, and you drive across the river through one of the longest covered bridges in the world.

An art critic once said of the Memorial, "There is nothing about the Museum more important than just its enforcement of the deep sincerity, the high integrity of sculpture as Saint-Gaudens practiced it. I think of the Museum as upholding a fine standard. It is full of charm and beauty but most of all it seems to me to embody the conscience of a great artist".

The Memorial is open to the public from May 30 to October 15.

Seven Changes Proposed By Retiring A.N.A. Head

A series of seven recommendations that would make sweeping changes in the American Numismatic Association were left by Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson, USN (Ret.) as he vacated the office of president in Atlanta.

Admiral Dodson proposed changes that would affect the Board of Governors, its general secretary, The Numismatist and its editor, the building fund and the convention's dealer bourse.

Tagging the recommendations for consideration by the new executive board, Admiral Dodson declared:

"Organizations which assume that they are riding some automatic growth escalator invariably descend into stagnation."

His proposals are:

1. The A.N.A. by-laws be changed to provide for an increase in the membership of the Board of Governors from five to seven with the two additional governors to be first elected in 1963.

2. The executive board study the desirability of changing the by-laws to adopt a combined system of geographical and "at large" representation for the Board of Governors.

3. By-laws be changed to provide for the appointment of the general secretary by the executive board and that this change be made effective with the eventual retirement from office of the present general secretary.

4. That the employment of a full-time general secretary and a full-time editor of The Numismatist with adequate compensation for the heavy responsibilities of these two offices be planned for the immediate future and be made effective when in the judgment of the executive Board adequate funds are available.

5. Appointment of an editorial advisory committee to be composed of the editor, assistant editor of The Numismatist and three other members appointed by the president to determine compensation for each article published in The Numismatist on the basis of a minimum of $10 per printed page to a maximum of $30 per printed page, depending upon the quality of the article.

6. That a building fund committee be appointed to explore every possibility of securing contributions to this worthy cause.

7. That the executive board give serious consideration to the elimination of the bourse at the A.N.A. national conventions with increased emphasis placed on the exhibits of members and on social and educational activities.

In commenting upon the last recommendation, Admiral Dodson said:

"The A.N.A. is a cultural and educational organization. It is not a bazaar."

He explained that there is an increasing pressure on the part of some newly admitted dealer members to force regional and state convention chairmen to eliminate all convention activities which conflict with the dealers' bourse.

"In some local and regional conventions this pressure to exclude all but commercial activity has resulted in elimination of the banquet, of sight-seeing trips and other social functions, and of the education program," the admiral said.

"The A.N.A. should stand firm in resisting this type of pressure," he declared.

He also cited the problem in hotel accommodations with increasing numbers attending the convention as another reason to consider elimination of the bourse at A.N.A. national conventions.

Admiral Dodson, in enlarging upon his proposal of the at large representation for the Board of Governors, outlined a plan providing for one governor to be elected by members residing in eastern states, one governor from the middle-western states, one from the far western states and a fourth governor representing members from the southern and southwestern states with three additional governors elected by the membership at large.

"This would, in my opinion, create an executive board more representative of the entire membership and would stimulate greater interest in the A.N.A. in sections of the nation where members have not always been adequately represented," said the retiring A.N.A. leader.

Admiral Dodson, in discussing the changes for the office of general secretary, said the present general secretary, Lewis Ragan, fully concurs in this recommendation.

He urged that the existence of the A.N.A. building fund be widely publicized and contributions from clubs and from members encouraged.

errors and in classifying, evaluating and identifying them.

Its first achievement was the elimination of the term "freak" which had been employed for years to refer to coins which deviated from normal. Now the term, "error" has not only been adopted but is being used by almost all collectors.

The second achievement is the compilation of a list of 14 types of coin errors that could inadvertently be made in mints and through inefficient control and inspections be allowed to be issued to the public.

Error Collectors Join In Committee Support

Members of the Collectors of Numismatic Errors meeting at the American Numismatic Association convention in Atlanta, pledged full support and assistance to the committee recently appointed, by the A.N.A. to obtain opinions and rulings by the government concerning some numismatic errors.

Dr. C. A. Bolt, Marshville, N. C., presided at the Atlanta session where the principal discussion concerned the legality of possession of certain off-metal coins.

"Members felt a clarification of the situation would be beneficial to all concerned," reported Raymond J. Larson, Plattsmouth, Nebr., who was renamed secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Dr. Bolt was re-elected president and Paul Franklin, Massapequa Park, N. Y., is the new vice president of the group.

At the meeting, held on Thursday at the convention, members of the research committee reported they had been swamped by inquiries from collectors concerning errors. Many of those inquiries accompanied coins which had been forwarded for identification as to the type of error. One committee member reported he still had 150 letters to answer.

Dr. Bolt reappointed the following men to the Board of Governors and Research Committee:

Harry J. Forman, Philadelphia; Paul Franklin, Charles W. Harvey, Phoenix, Ariz.; Michael Kolman, Jr., Cleveland; Dr. J. J. Litman, Akron; Charles W. Schermerhorn, Albany, N. Y., and William A. Stumpp, Millburn, N. J.

Next annual meeting of the group will be held in Detroit in August, 1962, during the international convention of the A.N.A. and the Canadian Numismatic Association.

The Collectors of Numismatic Error organization was formerly known as Collectors of Mint Errors, but the word "Mint" was changed to "Numismatic" last year in order to better describe the activities of the members of the group. Several of the members collect misprinted currency, and the initial title of the organization did not include them or their activities. All of the reference to "errors" was being blamed on mints, although misprinted currency is quite as common as coin errors.

The Collectors of Numismatic Errors was organized in Chicago in August, 1957, for the purpose of mutual helpfulness in collecting Officers of the Collectors of Numismatic Errors named at their annual meeting during the A.N.A. convention in Atlanta are, left to right, Paul Franklin, Massapequa Park, N. Y.; Dr. C. A. Bolt, Marshville, N. C., and Raymond J. Larson, Plattsmouth, Neb., secretary-treasurer. Both Dr. Bolt and Larson were renamed to their posts.

Shroyer Continues Group To Study Coinage Measures

C. C. Shroyer, new president of the American Numismatic Association, today said he considered the work of the newly-created A.N.A. committee to study and submit recommendations regarding federal coinage laws and regulations as of "utmost importance."

The committee, named by Admiral O. H. Dodson, will be reappointed in order that its study may continue without interruption.

Final report and recommendation of the group will be reviewed and approved by the A.N.A. executive board and submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury with a request for favorable action.

The 11-member committee will request rewording of federal law and treasury department regulations so they may be classified for the mutual benefit of coin collectors, dealers and Treasury department officials and their field agents responsible for enforcement of laws covering coinage.

It will provide bona fide coin collectors and numismatic dealers with a clear set of instructions covering what they may and may not legally import, purchase, sell, hold and display.

Members include Dr. J. Hewitt Judd, of Nebraska, as chairman; James C. Wobensmith, Philadelphia; Harry Lessin, Norwalk, Conn.; John S. Hill, Temple, Texas; Max Schwartz, New York; Ellis Edlowitz, Washington, D. C.; John Pittman, Rochester, N. Y.; Harold Klein, Hinsdale, Ill.; Herbert Bergen, Fullerton, Calif.; William Philippott, Dallas, Texas, and John Ford, New York.

Fall Show For Norwich Club

Plans for its fall coin show are expected to be discussed at the next meeting of the Uncas Numismatic Association of Norwich, Conn., set for Wednesday, September 6, in the Norton library in Norwich, starting at 7:30 p.m., first session of the club since last June.

The Uncas group's show has been scheduled for Saturday, November 4, at Johnson's Flower Shop, 112 Lafayette Street, in Norwich, near Bacus hospital. General chairman is Harry Schatz, Fitchville, Conn., while bourse chairman is John Sullivan, North Stonington, Conn.

lars, 105 quarters, and 15 silver dollars.

Burglars broke into the home of Radio Patrol Capt. L. E. Baggerly of El Paso, Tex. and stole $27 worth of coins.

Capt. Baggerly said the coins were duplicates he had acquired while building up a series of U.S. cents, nickels and dimes. The coins were kept in a dresser drawer.

"Since they didn't take anything else, I suspect it was kids," the captain said. "Actually, I'm

Wisconsin Club Plans For Fall

Preliminary plans for a fall Coin Convention on October 28 and 29 are expected to be discussed at the next meeting of the Janesville, Wis., Coin Club, set for Thursday, September 7, in the Janesville Y.M.C.A., 51 South Franklin street, starting at 7:45 p.m.

The convention is to be held at the Arrow Park of the Parker Pen Company of Janesville, according to a report from secretary R. Jackson.

happy that's all they took."

Returning from vacation, a West Palm Beach woman found part of her coin collection, valued at more than $100, stolen from her locked house.

Louise Shaw told patrolman Wendell C. Guyer that the coins ranged in denomination from cents to half-dollars.

A recent series of break-ins and larcenies, including the theft of a coin collection, are under investigation by the Ingham County, Mich. sheriff's office.

Officers said the coins were taken from Charles Keep of Mason. The collection included 67 dimes, including several uncirculated early Mercury dimes.

A Hobbs, N. Mex. home was burglarized recently and thieves escaped with loot worth more than $2,000, including a $1,200 coin collection.

Victims of the raid were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hughes. Thieves entered the home by cutting the screen on a front window. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were away on a fishing vacation when the theft occurred.

Burglars broke into Phil Carlino's Buffalo home in broad daylight recently and stole over $6,800 worth of coins.

Outstanding among the stolen pieces was a 1903-O silver dollar in VF.

Carlino said that he had revised his insurance coverage after reading Coin World articles and editorials warning collectors to adequately insure their coins.

Biggest Turn-Out Reported
For Club Delegate Meeting

Largest turn-out of A.N.A. club representatives in history was reported at the Atlanta convention as the new second vice president, Herbert M. Bergen, of Fullerton, Calif., took over his duties as head of this division of the organization from Matt Rothert, of Camden, Ark., new member of the Board of Governors.

The all-time high attendance of club contacts quickly exhausted the supply of official club representative badges distributed to early-comers.

Both Bergen and Rothert were enthused at the spirit of the meeting which was conducted as an informal symposium and exchange of ideas by the representatives.

Meeting sites, auctions, programming, fund-raising and a variety of other subjects were discussed by the delegates in a mutual exchange of ideas.

The two club representative officials joined in a statement to urge every A.N.A. club across the nation to appoint a club representative, and send the name to Bergen at 604 North Spadra Road, Fullerton, Calif., so contact in the way of bulletins, etc., can be established.

"Some clubs are under the impression that the A.N.A. appoints representatives in each club," said the retiring second vice president. "This is not the case," he said. "Each club names its own and sends us the name for our files so we can establish communications directly."

A quarterly bulletin filled with ideas and suggestions is mailed to each A.N.A. club over the country as one of the duties of the second vice president, now Herbert M. Bergen.

ANA Officers
Are Informed

A smooth transition is insured in the A. N. A. administration as C. C. Shroyer of Fremont took the gavel in Atlanta from Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson.

The two presidents met several times for conferences in regard to future plans during the past year, and all committee appointments within the last year have been made after consultation with President Shroyer.

Shroyer participated actively in meetings to make preliminary plans for the Detroit 1962 joint A.N.A.-C.N.A. convention.

Admiral Dodson followed the custom of keeping the first vice president, the executive board and the entire A.N.A. official family fully informed as to problems and decisions by establishing the practice of frequent presidential memos.

Ex-presidents have been invited to sit in on executive board meetings and their advice has been frequently sought.

Toledo Club Meets

Wednesday, September 6, has been set for the next meeting of the Glass Center Coin Club of Toledo, Ohio, to be held at the V.F.W. post number 606, 1901 Tremainsville Road at Upton Avenue, starting at 7:30 p.m. An auction is scheduled, and visitors are welcome.

Seniors At ANA Meeting

Senior convention-goers at the 70th annual A.N.A. meeting in Atlanta were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Morrison, of Butler, Pa.

He is 93; she is 88.

Not only did the Morrisons attend the convention—they exhibited in Class 4 (United States paper money). Their display featured types and varieties of large size U. S. notes.

The Morrisons are beloved in their home community by all the children—they are famous for their children's confections.

They are illustrations of golden year hobbyists—Mrs. Morrison began to collect currency 11 years ago, specializing in paper money, and soon interested her husband in joining her.

Paper Money Group Forms; Bieciuk Head

Hank Bieciuk, Kilgore, Texas, was named interim president at an organizational meeting of a new paper money group, August 16, at the home of Blaise Danton, during the recent American Numismatic Association convention in Atlanta, Ga.

The paper money group, as yet unnamed, had met once before, in Boston at the previous year's American Numismatic Association convention.

Glen B. Smedley, Oak Park, Ill., who had planned the previous meetings expressed the wish that a paper money group could be organized—one that would not fall apart, no matter how small or how informal.

The reason why obsolete paper money was included with token and medal collectors in The Society of Tokens, Medals, and Obsolete Paper Money Collectors was explained by James Curto, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Curto said collectors of obsolete notes would prefer to be with a paper money group instead of with the other organization, now renamed the Tokens and Medals Society.

Grover Criswell, St. Petersburg Beach, Fla., said members in the new paper money organization must be willing to pay for and support a quality publication.

The problems of the Essay Proof Society, an organization devoted to the study of the historical background of stamps and paper money, was explained by Dr. Julian Blanchard, New York City, president of the society.

"Our three biggest problems," said Dr. Blanchard as an aid for the new group, "is finance, an editor, and contributors to our journal."

Interim president Hank Bieciuk asked for a list of the collectors interested in joining a new paper money organization. His address is: P. O. Box 1235, Kilgore, Texas.

English Coins Give Good Picture Of Era's History

A lesson learned from his high school principal—every coin has a history—started David Ash, of Oakville, Ontario, 20 years ago, on his career as a coin collector and the result is the following article which is second in a series for Coin World readers.

Ash is covering the English line from William I until Edward II and the second installment covers the middle period.

By David Ash
Oakville, Ontario

Stephen (1135-1154) Norman and Plantagenet House:
Stephen was the third son of Stephen Henry, Count of Blois and Chartres, and through his mother Adela, he was a grandson of William the Conqueror. It will be remembered the male line of the Normans became extinct.

Stephen was a descendant from the fourth daughter of the Conqueror, usurping the crown to the prejudice of Maud, the only surviving child of Henry I. During this reign much debased money was minted, even earls and barons issued pieces from which they gained some profit.

In 1153 the Treaty of Wallingford was proclaimed and abolished the illegal mints, which, however, continued to be used during the greater portion of Stephen's reign. Many of these illegal coins or tokens were badly struck, and in most cases many of them were light in weight and somewhat irregular sizes.

On Stephen's coins the obverse shows the king crowned and holding a sceptre. Moreover, the king's name is spelt in several ways, they also appear abbreviated, reading frequently "STEINE." These coins were struck in about twenty-seven lawful mints.

During Stephen's reign silver pennies were minted at York by Eustace, an elder son of Stephen, these being of small weight, about 16 grains. William, a second son of Stephen, is said to have struck coins at Chichester and at Wisbeach.

And ecclesiastical pennies were minted by Henry, Bishop of Winchester, a younger brother of the king; on the obverse is the bishop's head with a crozier in the front, surrounded by the inscription, "HENRICVS EPC," on the reverse "STEPHANVS REX."

There are also some pieces which purport to have upon them representations of Stephen and Matilda his wife. Robert, Earl of Gloucester, who was an illegitimate son of Henry I, who had commanded the forces of Matilda when she took up arms against Stephen, on behalf of her son, struck some silver pennies, all of which are now rare. Stephen died October 1154.

Henry II (1154-1189) Plantagenet House:

Henry II was the son of Geoffrey Plantagenet, Count of Anjou, and the son of Maud, inherited lands in Normandy from his mother, and after his marriage annexed the Duchy of Aquitaine, in France.

The coins of Henry II are of two distinct types. The first issue, struck in 1156, were very irregular in shape, and difficult to decipher; the coins of the second issue were more regular, and were of what is known as the short-cross type.

On the first issue the king's bust is nearly full face; and he holds a sceptre in his right hand, and on the reverse in the angles of the cross are usually small crosses. The second issue has the

Token-Medals Group Adopts Short New Name At Atlanta Convention

A new name, "Tokens and Medals Society," or T.A.M.S. for short, was chosen at the first annual meeting by the token and medal collectors, August 18, as the national group gathered at the American Numismatic Association convention in Atlanta.

Formerly "The Society of Tokens, Medals, and Obsolete Paper Money Collectors," the organization shortened its name as the obsolete paper money was dropped.

Dr. George Fuld, Baltimore, Md., president of the numismatic specialty group, asked James Curto, Grosse Pointe, Mich., to explain why obsolete paper money was deleted.

"A new paper money organization is now forming," said Curto, who expressed the wish that the paper money collectors who were interested in tokens and medals would continue their membership in the new T.A.M.S.

"Originally the obsolete paper money people had nowhere to go; now they have their own group forming," said Curto. (A story on the new paper money organization is elsewhere in this issue.)

The 40 T.A.M.S. members gathered for the meeting, one of the swiftest at the convention, as the group accomplished the following:

Changed dues to $3 a year from $2 plus a one dollar initiation charge.

Appointed Clifford Mishler, Vandalia, Mich., society librarian.

Announced two awards to be given at A.N.A. conventions beginning in 1962, one for tokens, the Dr. Benjamin P. Wright award, and one for obsolete paper money, the D. C. Wismer award.

Announced plans to incorporate in the District of Columbia.

Announced the Society medal, which will be given to all members in bronze, and available in silver at $3 to members only; plastic holders are also available.

Expressed a desire to name the Smithsonian Institute as a depository of contemporary medals; the Society will also give dies of their medals to the Smithsonian.

Encouraged regional chapters in their organization as token and medal collecting spreads in interest.

Named a constitution committee of: Harry Lessin, Norwalk, Conn.; Ellis Edlowitz, Washington, D. C., and George Hatie, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.; the constitution to be based on that of the Michigan State Numismatic Society.

Announced a membership of 532 by the secretary, Mrs. Lucy Kelly, 3410 Ford Street, McKeesport, Pa.

Expressed a desire for more members to join by writing Mrs. Kelly while charter membership is still open, and the current supply of medals available.

Collector Murdered

James Edward Crawford, 68, a noted Perry Township, Stark County, Ohio, coin, gun and art collector was shot and killed on Monday, August 14. A .38 caliber revolver was used.

Since Crawford lived alone, the body was not found until Tuesday night—or about 30 hours after the slaying, reported Dr. H. W. Gauchat, acting coroner for Stark County.

Crawford's dog was also beaten to death by the murderer or murderers.

"We have no real clues as yet," W. J. Hine, Stark County sheriff told Coin World, "and investigations like this usually take some time."

Sheriff Hine indicated that robbery was definitely the motive for the slaying since a number of Crawford's rare coins are missing. Estimates are still being made as to the value of the coins, guns and paintings stolen.

Hopewell Club Organizing

Permanent dates and a place for meetings have been announced by the Hopewell, Va., Coin Club, which was organized last spring, with the next session scheduled for Tuesday, September 5, in the Hopewell Community building, starting at 7:30 p.m.

The club has decided to hold two sessions each month, on the first and third Tuesday, in the same place. Visitors are welcome. The group's major purpose is to be of educational assistance to collectors.

Don Sherer First Convention Registrant

Don O. Sherer of Phoenix, Ariz., assistant to the general secretary, and one of the most important A.N.A. officials in the planning of the successful Atlanta convention, was given the privilege of being No. 1 registrant at the 70th annual conclave.

Leroy D. Martin, chairman of registrations, presented badge No. 1 to Sherer.

ANA Growth Modern Trend

A vast sweep of increasing cultural interests is reflected in the rapid growth of the American Numismatic Association, Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson of Detroit said on his retirement from the presidency in Atlanta.

The admiral quoted from a recent magazine article on observations about the current American scene.

"The thriving and expanding United States economy is providing an increasing abundance of material things of life."

"Time for leisure and recreation has created a vast new public interest in cultural pursuits. It is estimated 15 million Americans paint, sketch or sculpt."

"American music lovers support 160 symphony orchestras plus 1,500 community orchestras composed of 80 or more members. We have more than 700 performing opera groups across the land. Nearly 15,000 new books were published in the U. S. A. in 1960 and 10 million Americans belong to book clubs. The United States has nearly 1,900 institutions for higher education."

Neuce N.C.W. Top Winner

Edwin O. Neuce, Westover, W. Va., accepts the first place plaque in individual National Coin Week competition from Chairman Dolly-Maude Harris, of Austin, Texas. Mrs. Harris was honored by the A.N.A. at Atlanta when they asked her to repeat her chairmanship next year—a first in A.N.A. annals to have a N.C.W. chairman serve twice in succession.

Petrie Wings To Trio Of Countries For Coin Trip

The second installment of a three part series, written exclusively for Coin World readers, is presented herewith by A.E.H. Petrie, editor of The Canadian Numismatic Journal.

In his first article appearing in last week's Canadian Edition of Coin World, Editor Petrie pointed to the need for understanding of Canadian numismatics and the potential development of interest in U.S. coins by Canadians.

In this article he takes our readers to London, Paris and Barcelona with special comments prior to getting to Athens and neighboring communities. Here is Part II:

By A. E. H. Petrie

For two reasons—to extend my knowledge "on the spot" and make friends for Canada through numismatics—I was happy to visit England, Belgium, France and Spain over a five-week period in the spring of 1959—and again in 1961, though concluding this time with fifteen days in Greece. Along with glorious spring weather in Britain and Europe, I enjoyed the kindness of many friends, both new and old.

In London, the great old numismatic firms of Spink & Son, Limited, and A. H. Baldwin & Sons gave me every assistance in fields of personal interest—but also helped provide many important and some rare references for the C.N.A. Library.

In Cambridge, besides visiting good friends made there during the Second World War, I met Mr. Philip Grierson, England's best-known authority on the medieval European series, whose volume about them, when it appears, is expected to take its place alongside Seltman's "Greek Coins" and Mattingly's "Roman Coins."

bright patchwork of English farmlands, the fields of France appeared more even, extended, and of a softer green colour at that time of year.

The confident, bustling prosperity of London gave way in my observation at Paris to a subdued but real determination among people there to restore an economy shattered by both World Wars, to provide the new housing so desperately needed for a rising population, and to recover something of their country's past creative greatness.

Booksellers along the Seine had a few nice coins. Inexpensive re-strikes of 17th and 18th century French medals relating to Canada were obtainable at the Cabinet des Medailles, also on the Left Bank.

The firm of Florange provided 4th century Roman bronze of Magnentius for Amiens bearing the Christian chi-rho emblem, and two superb Carolingian deniers—one of Bourges, the other of Chartres.

The latter town is notable, not only for its intelligent, industrious people and their rich surrounding countryside of La Beauce, but as the location of what many con-

P.N.G. Calls Convention 'Big Business'

"The American Numismatic Association conventions are big, and should be run like big business," said Sol Kaplan of Cincinnati, executive vice president of the Professional Numismatists Guild, Inc., at Atlanta during the A.N.A. convention in a special interview. Simultaneously the P.N.G.'s executive pledged support of his organization to the A.N.A.

"We would undertake the handle the bourse, and underwrite expenses of A.N.A. officials at the meeting," Kaplan said. "We feel we could operate the bourse with a sizeable profit of from $2,000 to $2,500."

Kaplan said P.N.G.'s offer to publish the American Numismatic Association directory apparently had been tabled by the executive board.

He said his organization would not offer again unless the A.N.A. official group saw fit to revive the matter.

P.N.G. continues to study possibilities of establishing a numismatic scholarship to worthy students, Kaplan announced. Currently the nation's colleges and universities are being polled for subject availability, he said.

P.N.G. continues in its dedication to protect the collector from unscrupulous dealers, the Cincinnati numismatist declared.

sider the world's most beautiful Cathedral—termed France's Parthenon by the sculptor Rodin—with its splendour of statues and magnificent, living architecture, besides one hundred and eighty great stained glass windows of the 12th and 13th centuries.

Then, taking the South Express down by way of Bordeaux, with a few days in Madrid, we spent Holy Week at Cordova and saw something of the phenomenal progress made over the last two years by Spain in building up farmlands, forests, highways, cities, and restoring the latter's historic buildings and monuments.

True, Spain has received over a billion dollars in American aid for reconstruction between 1947 and 1959, with more also since then from the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, and self-help through the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization's wonderful plan to double the food output of Mediterranean countries between 1960 and 1980.

Convention Guests

Rev. and Mrs. Sidney S. Tate were special A.N.A. guests at the Saturday night banquet with Rev. Tate giving the invocation. He is pastor of the Athens, Ga., First Methodist church.

But one finds no evidence that Spaniards have wasted this aid at any time despite grinding poverty which continues to be the lot of many in Andalusia.

Barcelona, our next port of call, featured the kindly reception of Don Francisco Calico in luxurious offices at 2 Plaza del Angel, where he and his ancestors have conducted their numismatic business since 1784.

Through his generous interest, we had memorable visits to the University of Barcelona's Library (founded about 1400)—here the librarian, Dr. Matheu y Llopis, author of many important works on Spanish numismatics, was my host—and through the amazingly fine and extensive numismatic displays at the Catalan Provincial Museum, which were shown to me by their keeper, Senor Veuge.

Barcelona, like Madrid, is a great modern city of more than two million inhabitants—although its Province has a far higher standard of living than the rest of Spain, whose leading commercial and industrial region we knew it to be.

Before leaving there, I learned from Senor Calico that he arranges distribution, at U.S. $35 a set, of Burzio's Diccionario de la Moneda Hispanoamericana (Dictionary of Spanish-American Coinage), a three-volume work published lately in Chile, which won the American Numismatic Society's highest award for numismatic literature in 1960.

BU COIN SETS

These are still the specialty of the house. My margin of profit is surely smaller than on anything else, but there is more satisfaction. I notice that everyone else has for the most part raised their prices well above mine. This is the big advantage of being in the roll business also, as it enables me to buy most of my rolls at wholesale.

Those of you who have limited funds to invest in coins, should consider the advantage of buying a BU set. You get a readily resalable item at roll prices. Any dealer will buy such a set, but only the few roll dealers will buy your rolls.

You will notice many fewer wanted spots in my list of rolls this week. Don't know how long this will last, but right now I have them. Schulman Reports

Hans Clears Desk To Get Ready For Trip To Europe

By Hans M. F. Schulman

"What is a collectors item?" writes one of our readers and he adds to this "numismatically speaking". There seems to be such a difference of opinion on this subject that I feel it needs clarification in this column. In my opinion a "collectors item" is not "an item collected" but an "item worth collecting".

To be "worth collecting," there is the requirement of quality or value. This brings us to the definition that a collectors item numismatically speaking is a coin, medal, decoration, medalion, seal, paper money or odd and curious money item of some value above the intrinsic metal or exchange value and in a state of preservation which makes it possible to describe and read it.

Therefore, a dime where the date is not legible is not a collector's item or a 2 shilling piece of England which is just worth the 2 shillings or 28 cents, is this neither.

A piece of paper money which is creased or torn or a cowrie shell with a hole do not fall under the heading of collectors items.

We draw the attention to two very unusual publications which do not often come into the hands of the coin collectors.

The "Annual Bullion Review 1960" is published by the famous gold house of Samuel Montagu and has been published since 1911 without interruption, not even during war years. The 1960 issue shows the difference in importance between gold and silver in 1911 and now in their 50th edition in 1960.

In 1960 the world production of gold is estimated at almost 34 million fine ounces and this is without the Russian production on which we do not have any figures.

The low and high prices for gold during 1960 were from $35.05 to $40.60 per fine ounce.

The silver production of the world for 1960 was estimated to be 236 million ounces and the prices fluctuated from 91 cents per ounce fine to 99.9 cents.

The other book which is rarely reviewed by coin publications is the "Revue Internationale de la Police Criminelle" (International Review of the Criminal Police).

The International Police (called Interpol) with its main office in Paris, is the most important source to check about counterfeits and restrikes in coins and paper money and about stolen monies.

In order to inform bankers, world police officials, mint directors etc. etc. they publish not only a report with photographs of counterfeits but also they publish all the new coins and new paper money so that readers can compare. They give detailed information about weight and fineness etc. The publication which is very luxuriously edited is published in the Netherlands and is in several languages include English (quite expensive).

If you care to have more information, address yourself to Interpol O.I.P.C., 37 Rue Paul Valery, Paris 16, and if you have information about falsifications they will be pleased to receive it.

New coin firm in Germany! Dr. Walter Kimpel, Postfach 4634, Dusseldorf, who sent out his first list of coin offerings, 1700 coins. Good luck. Some catalogues were received from well known sources during the hot summer weeks and therefore am not reviewing them here.

Shortly I will depart for the International Association of Professional Numismatists convention-in Rome and I will report to you all the while on the way to Rome through different countries and also after the convention traveling through other places.

If anybody wants to reach me between August 20 and October 7, I suggest you write airmail (15 cents) to Hans M. F. Schulman, 17 St. Albanvorstadt, Basel, Switzerland. Cables: MARISUIS-SE SCHULMAN, BASEL What's holding the Andorra issue back?

Nothing wrong with Andorra coin, only the fact that the Andorran government's representative should be present at the striking and has not had the time to go to Munich. The coin will be out and new issues of other types are already planned.

It will interest the readers that the issue of Coin World describing African money has been sent to all U. N. representatives of the African nations. Some reactions are expected.

Our review in "Coin World" on the two books on doubloons; the one by Lopez-Chavez (this book just out) and the other by Calico have been internationally discussed. Coin World's review came out before anybody reported on the books; one of which appeared on the market. You will have to buy the Calico book about gold onzas when it is out whether you buy the Lopez-Chavez book or not. Prices are Lopez-Chavez, $25 and Calico, $19.

Anthracite Coin Club To Have Canadian Night

The Anthracite Coin Club of Hazleton, Pa., has scheduled a special "Canadian Coin Night" for its next meeting, set for Thursday, September 7, in the Eagles' Club House on North Wyoming Street in Hazleton, according to a report from Mrs. Harry W. Berge, club secretary.

Since the club has a good many collectors of Canadian material, quite a few nice exhibits are anticipated, Mrs. Berge said.

At the last meeting, plans were discussed for the Anthracite club's first annual Coin Show, set for Sunday, October 22, also at the Eagles' clubhouse. Club vice president Harry W. Berge has been named general chairman, and specific information may be obtained from him at 830 West 7th Street, Hazleton.

It was announced that the charter for the Anthracite Junior Coin Club would close in September. The junior club was started in May with 16 members as part of the senior group's project for encouragement of collecting on the part of young people. Albert Longenberger is president of the juniors, Judy Lazo, secretary, and James Gillespie, treasurer.

Next October is the Anthracite club's first birthday anniversary, and the Coin Show was scheduled as part of the observance of the date. Working with chairman Berge on plans are George Andrasi, Donald Kromis, George Somers and Joseph Lechman.

Labor Day Session

The Washington, D. C., Numismatic Society is observing the Labor Day holiday with a regular meeting, to be held on Monday, September 4, in the Smithsonian Institution, 10th Street and Constitution Avenue, starting at 8 p.m. An auction will be featured, and a record attendance is hoped for.

Coins of ancient Greece often bore mintmarks.

Roy Miller Talks Hawaii

Hawaiian coins and Colonial and Washington Cents were the subject of a talk by Roy A. A. Miller of Racine, Wis., at a recent meeting of the State Line Coin Club of Twin Lakes, Wis., according to a report from secretary Sylvia Peydik.

Miller accompanied his talk with exhibits of five Hawaiian denominations, large and small planchet Pine Tree Shillings, and a display of Colonials.

Also reported was the appointment of Mrs. Peydik as secretary-treasurer, replacing Earl Dankert of Twin Lakes.

Next meeting of the State Line club is scheduled to be held on Labor Day, September 4, at the Randall School in Randall Township, starting at 7:30 p.m. Any possible change in meeting date or time may be obtained from club president Charles Calkins, Twin Lakes fireman, or from Mrs.

Juniors Show

This is an example of one junior collector's assemblage of coins—an exhibit belonging to Richard Moffi of Hartford, Conn.

Peydik, Route 3, Antioch, Ill. Visitors are welcome to the club sessions.

Four Hundred A. N. A. Members Live Overseas

The American Numismatic Association has approximately 400 foreign members, General Secretary Lewis M. Reagan disclosed at the Atlanta convention. Many of these are United States citizens living abroad, Reagan said. He said two copies of The Numismatist are sent to Russia—one to the lone Russian member of the A. N. A. and another to the official archives in Moscow.

ANA Goes Into International Relationships

American Numismatic Association's awareness of the need for worldwide cooperation among nations was evidenced by two recent projects.

A total of 90 publications were presented to the Philippine Numismatic and Antiquarian Society under the leadership of Robert G. MacArthur to replace the library of the Philippine group which was lost during the bombing of Manila in World War II.

Presentation was made on behalf of the A.N.A. by representatives of the American embassy.

A total of 42 sets of reprints of Selections from The Numismatist were mailed to national numismatic groups abroad. Fifty more sets of these volumes are awaiting confirmations of correct addresses.

The state department through the U. S. Information Agency is cooperating in securing names and addresses of overseas groups, and in making the book presentations on behalf of the A.N.A.

Dr. Rasilav Maric, curator of the National Collection of Coins in the National Museum in Belgrade, was elected to honorary life membership in the A.N.A.

George Vanderwende mailed 20,000 copies of a four-page A.N.A. brochure on coin collecting to a special list of collectors abroad. Vernon Brown is chairman of the State Department Numismatic People-to-People committee.

Collectors Get 'Scent'

An anonymous woman turned in 22,076 cents to the Belmont Federal Savings and Loan Association in Martins Ferry, Ohio.

When area collectors heard about it via the newspaper, they descended upon the institution. But the coins had already been turned over to the Farmers and Merchants National Bank.

Bank officers said all the coins the woman had collected over a 15 year period had been sold; one collector bought $100 worth to search.

LOOKING FOR THAT CERTAIN COIN??

An excellent way to find it is to send me your want list, and let me price the ones you need in the grade you need them. Or you might like my approval service. If you can spend $10.00 or more a month on your collection, just send me a list of the coins you need, the grade, and the amount you'd like to spend a month. I'll send you a selection of which you keep the ones that please you, remit promptly, and in another month, you'll receive another selection.

Keep Present Members Plea Of Secretary

"We need to keep our old members" Lewis M. Reagan, American Numismatic Association's general secretary told a business meeting of the organization in Atlanta as he cited to a figure of 1,955 in loss of old members last year—most of them suspensions because of unpaid dues.

A total of 4,500 new members during the fiscal year partially offset this loss, according to Reagan's report, for a new gain of 13.7 per cent or 2,697.

One hundred and 29 members of the A.N.A. died during the year; 162 resigned, 1,660 were suspended and four expelled, according to Reagan.

He also urged members to notify his office of their resignation intentions to facilitate handling of records.

A.N.A. membership stood at 22,374, when Reagan gave his report in Atlanta. Last year it was 19,677. A total of 29 regular members transferred to life memberships.

Highest net membership gain for the A.N.A. occurred in 1959-60, according to Reagan's report when the figure stood at 17.9 per cent. Next highest came in 1956-57 when a gain of 14.4 was recorded.

Ashland Club Re-Elects

The club is slated to meet at Black's Roller Rink, 3571 Winchester Avenue, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Bob Jenove - A.N.A. - L.M. 378

A reporter and a photographer for the newspaper decided to give a Loop newsboy $10 for a seven-cent newspaper and ask him to bring the change of their hotel.

But they didn't plan on Selso Corpus—the boy they found on the first try—a black-haired tyke with horn-rimmed glasses, 12 years old, a serious and scrupulous little gentleman.

First Selso suggested a source for change when they offered him the $10, then he said he'd go get change. But the newspaper people stalled him, and asked him to take the change to the Palmer House.

The reporter and the photographer waited at the hotel desk. In about 45 minutes Selso appeared. They told him he was a hero. But he wasn't overjoyed. He said he had to hurry back.

Selso looked embarrassed when the photographer asked him to smile.

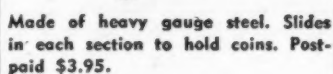

"I can't," he said. He rubbed the left side of his face, still partially paralyzed from polio.

He wants to be a doctor. He Selso takes his $7 a week home to his mother; she saves it for his education. The Daily News staffers gave Selso the $9.93 change. He took it to his mother to put away in case they ever needed money.

Selso's only hobby is coin collecting.

Phila. Mint Makes Three Units In July

Quarters and halves were by-passed by the Philadelphia Mint during the month of July according to the "domestic coinage executed" report issued by the Bureau of the Mint in Washington.

The Philadelphia Mint made 9,620,000 dimes, 1,160,000 nickels and 18,670,000 cents for a total dollar value of $1,206,700 during the month.

Activities at the Denver Mint were in all denominations with 1,208,000 halves, 2,220,000 quarters, 12,526,240 dimes, 30,912,000 nickels and 132,155,000 cents being "executed" for a total dollar value of $5,278,774.

The lowest number of proof sets yet made in any one month this year were done by the Philadelphia Mint with only 188,619 sets completed. However, the 1961 total production of proof sets is 1,677,568 which is more than double the seven months' production of 1960 which was 835,266 sets.

A complete seven-month mint report by mints will be found on page 30 of this issue.

Thus far in 1961, nickels, quarters and halves are lagging behind the comparable period in 1960 while cents and dimes are ahead in total pieces.

Coinage executed for foreign governments at the Philadelphia Mint included 25,000,000 10-hwan pieces in bronze for Korea. Liberia was the only other foreign customer and got 200,000 silver dollars; 800,000 50-cent pieces, in silver; 1,000,000 10-cent pieces in silver; 3,000,000 5-cent pieces in cupro-nickel; and 5,000,000 1-cent pieces in bronze.

Ohio Club Shifts Dates

Changing its meeting dates from the third to the first Tuesday of each month, the Orville, Ohio, Coin Club has slated its next session for Tuesday, September 5, to be held in the Ohio Central Telephone building, starting at 8 p.m. for the business meeting, and 7 o'clock for general bourse and "socializing".

Feature of the September 5 session is expected to be a 60-lot auction. At the last meeting, a 50-lot sale was conducted by Dan Stephens. Before the meeting, some of the auction material was on display in an Orville bank window, with this practice expected to be followed in the future.

Also at the last meeting, members viewed a film entitled "Money Minters", a depiction of coins being made at the Royal Canadian Mint.

Seattle Club Welcomes New Coin Collectors

Coin collectors in the vicinity of Seattle, Wash., are being invited to attend meetings of the Lake City Coin Club, formed last May, the next of which is to be held on Thursday, September 7, in the Lions Hall Community Center, 125th and 28th N.E., starting at 7:30 p.m., according to secretary Elaine Heyer.

Currently, the club has 16 members and is interested in having more. Chief features of meetings include an auction, displays, special awards, and trading opportunities. Beginners are especially welcomed.

At the last session, Byron Johnson exhibited Roman coins, Don Head showed tokens and Mint errors, and Charles Eastman displayed a set of U.S. cents from 1793 to 1961, with each discussing the exhibit.

Starting with temporary officers, the club at a recent meeting elected leaders for a full term of one year, headed by Mrs. Marita Saltzgeber as president. Others include:

Jack Taylor, vice president; David Crist, treasurer; Mrs. Elaine H. Heyer, secretary; and directors Earl Radford, one year; M. K. Jackson, two years, and Earl Buck, three years.

Ellwood Club Shifts Dates

The Eagle Coin Club of Ellwood City, Pa., has changed its meeting date to the first Thursday of each month, and is slated to hold its next session on Thursday, September 7, in the upper courtroom of the Ellwood City Municipal building, starting at 8 p.m.

Formed only last spring, the Eagle Coin Club has passed the 60 mark in membership, including 16 new members accepted at the August session.

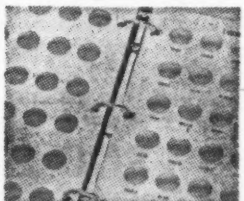

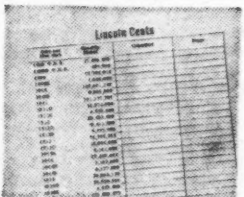

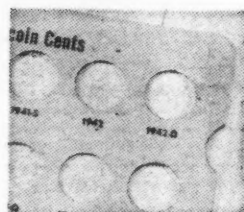

Special guest at that meeting was Mrs. John Moretti, secretary of the New Castle, Pa., Coin Club, who gave the junior members lessons on coin grading. At the September 6 session, she will present prizes to those who exhibit the five best coins.

Funsters Use Odd Currency

Fun-loving numismatists had their day in Atlanta during the A.N.A. convention. Some substituted Confederate currency to startle cashiers. ... others came equipped with uncirculated dollar bills padded into checkbook-like form.

These funsters casually tore off enough currency to pay for their meals or for tips as they muttered something about "getting low, have to make some more. ... Then they watched their offerings taken aside for a discreet but thorough inspection.

Dolly-Maude Harris, National Coin Week chairman, went a step further.

Her book of currency was casually labeled, "Texas Scratch Pad!"

Ohio Baby Youngest Convention Registrant

Jeffrey Johnson, four-month-old son of Editor and Mrs. D. Wayne Johnson, of Coin World, was the youngest registrant at the 70th annual A.N.A. convention in Atlanta—and most officials thought he was the youngest in history of the A.N.A.

Between bottles and naps he assisted his parents, Circulation Director Cecil Watkins and Margo Russell in greeting Coin World friends in the convention bourse area.

Junior Columnist Writes

Discussion Of Overdates Draws Attention Of Youth

EDITOR'S NOTE—Let the crepe hangers and the "do gooders" cry their eyes out. United States is going to be in safe hands!

In preparing for our Junior Edition, we had one youth volunteer to do a junior column.....and he suited action to the words so we present his column herewith (this was not entered in the contest, of course.)

So, read the column on overdates which was created by the initiative and thoughtfulness of a 15 year old Tennessee youth who wishes to correspond with any Coin World reader on the subject matter. His complete address is: Miller Taylor, 1221 Lewis

Ave., Dyersburg, Tenn.

By Miller Taylor

With the increase of coin collectors it is becoming more difficult to find many of the "key coins."

But there is a relatively new field in numismatics in which you may find interesting or even rare coins. This is the collecting of overdates and mint errors.

First let's discuss overdates, a field of numismatics that is becoming very popular. Overdates were created because the government lacked funds to create a new, expensive die. Therefore they changed the last number of the date on an old die, creating the date of the present year.

There are many overdates listed in the Red Book and because of the increased interest and closer inspection of coins, new overdates are found quite often.

Some listed in the Red Book are: 1869/8 Indian Cent; 1882/1 Shield Nickel; 1883/2 Shield Nickel; 1918-D/7 Buffalo Nickel; 1942/1 Mercury Dime.

Overdates on early U. S. coinage were common and most do not demand very high prices. But modern overdates are rarely created and sell for very high prices.

Many overdates are easily recognizable but others need the use of a magnifier.

Most errors are more common than overdates and are therefore less valuable. This is not always the case, witness the 1937-D 3 legged Buffalo nickel and the 1955 double-die Lincoln cent.

There are many types of errors; such as die shifts, dancing mint marks, filled dies, and die breaks.

An example of the die shift is the 1955 double die cent where the die was loose on its mounting and moved during its many stamping, leaving an unusual effect.

Dancing mint marks, mint marks that are displaced or out of their normal positions, are found mostly on cents and nickels. A famous example of the filled die is the 1937-D 3 legged Buffalo where the leg on the die was filled with dirt or metal which caused one leg to be missing on the coin. Less evident filled dies may be found on many coins.

Die breaks occur often on coins such as cracked skulls on the Lincoln cent. On this type there is a break in the die which causes an irregular ridge on the coin. Cracked skulls on Lincoln cents happen almost every year.

It could be possible to collect a set of cracked from every year of the Lincoln cent.

This field of numismatics is one that will capture your interest. I feel that all collectors should go into this just a little.

Newspaper Boy Inspires Dad To Become Collector

By James G. Johnson

This issue of the paper is the special "Junior Edition" which is excuse enough for me to write about junior collectors, something I like to do, anyway. Simply enough, it was a "very junior" who got me interested in coins in the first place and who, for some years, knew more about them than I did. For that matter, at the age of 13 he knew more about some phases of numismatics than many adults who had been collecting a good deal longer. I refer, of course, to my son, Jimmy Jr., whom I have mentioned from time to time in this column.

J. Johnson

By way of beginning, I am quoting a few paragraphs from one or two of my earliest columns which some 40,000 of our present subscribers didn't see, but which are pertinent to the topic.

"Jimmy was a newspaper carrier for Cleveland and Columbus papers in Alliance, Ohio. He made his weekly collections and noticed some odd coins, which later turned out to be 'Barber' money, dimes, quarters and halves. These coins were fairly common in circulation then.

"He asked me about them and got no intelligent answers since I didn't know, either. But I inquired around and eventually got hold of a coin book which was Whitman's 'Blue Book', and Jimmy got it for a Christmas present.

"We both read it with much interest, checked some small change we had around, and found that a few of the coins had some 'book' value. That did it, and as coin collectors we were 'in business'."

Filling Whitman folders was our first aim, then we got the idea of saving duplicates to trade, or to sell in order to pay for what we kept. This was Jimmy's idea, but I didn't need much convincing. Our next step was to join the Akron and Canton coin clubs, and from them we learned what we were doing, with C. D. Clark of Akron and C. T. Bolus of Canton being especially helpful. To quote again:

"While I was doing most of the looking, Jimmy was studying the catalogues, and what he learned about coins was a good deal. In fact, he learned enough so that he beat all the adult members of the Canton Coin Club in a numismatic quiz, including at least one dealer.

"In consequence, he was elected vice president of the club (at the age of 13, yet), an honor we both prized. That is one reason I like to encourage, in any way I can, 'junior' collectors, and deplore a custom I have run across of some clubs setting junior members apart from 'regular', although I do favor reducing their membership fees. Youngsters don't have adult incomes, but they can know as much and sometimes do!"

So, it was a 12-year-old boy who got me interested in what has turned out to be a fascinating and rewarding hobby, and a 13-year old who beat all his fellow adult club members in knowledge of the field of coins, so what have juniors done to be placed on an inferior basis in any club?

An inspiration has just hit. Why not have in a club two kinds of memberships, "Active" and "Associate", with the dividing line being the passing of a numismatic test? Let age have nothing to do with the matter, but knowledge of the hobby be the standard. The test could be given at intervals, to allow the "Associate" members to become "Active" when they were prepared to be.

Any club that did that would probably end up with one of the most informed memberships of any club in the country. However, I suspect that it will not be tried because some adults might find themselves inferior to some juniors, and that would never, never do.

There are some coin clubs, however, that do not make any special distinction between members, regardless of age, and some others that make very little. One such club is the "Jun-Ad" Coin Club of Greensburg, Ind., organized last spring.

The Jun-Ad club was so named to indicate equality of membership for both juniors and adults. The club has gone so far as to elect a double set of officers, to give equal representation to both groups. Beyond that, I don't know what else they do to carry out the equality idea.

For that matter, I am not sure how good their idea really is. If it induces the younger members to live up to their implied responsibilities as "regular" members, it is fine. If it merely serves to emphasize differences rather than similarities, then I am a little doubtful.

What I would like to see is some such situation as the one that took place in Canton, a younger member elected to one of the usual offices instead of an adult, or, even better, to the board of directors. Perhaps an even number of each, with the chairman being an odd man and an adult, would be effective. It should induce the younger members to try to make better numismatists of themselves, and give them a goal to shoot at, a directorship.

Writer Urges Deeper Study In Organized Numismatics

By Harold Don Allen

"How many students do you have in each of your classes, Professor?" the old scholar was asked as undergraduates poured out of the lecture hall.

"Oh, I don't know, perhaps one in a hundred!"

A similar situation, it seems to me, exists within organized numismatics on this continent:

I am convinced that it is not a healthy situation.

Numismatics, at its best, is a study, a fascinating exploration of history and economics, of fiscal policies and minting techniques, of portraiture and of craftsmanship, whether it be expressed in primitive monies or crude tokens, intaglio printing or medallion art.

Such study very well focus on a private reference collection, and the numismatist would not be human if the direction of the study and interest were not influenced, from time to time, by a chance acquisition, but the enquiring attitude and the desire for the full story of every piece should characterize the attitude of the numismatist.

The sort of approach that involves a mounting horde of chance acquisitions, or a drive for completion of a series or dated sequence with little interest in other than possession of the pieces, and perhaps their price, has little to commend it.

The fine mounting and display materials of the past decade have largely served to do away with the cigar box accumulation, but little to prevent numismatic pursuits stopping at the level of a fixation about filling gaps in a dated sequence, with no thought of the true potential of the hobby.

Always, in trading with youngsters as a collector, and in selling to them as a dealer, I did what I could to encourage them in the hobby; sometimes by advice, usually by giving them a little more than they expected, either in a trade or by price concessions, and trying to be more than fair, sometimes against my own son's objections!

Has this been abused? Probably. But I feel that for any one youngster who has taken unfair advantage, 20 have benefitted, and that is good enough. After all, cheating has been known among adults, also. "Let him who is without sin, cast the first stone."

I suppose I should sum up this column with some advice for juniors, based on what experience I have had. For what it's worth:

Study your catalogues and coin papers, and know what you are collecting and why. Be interested in what others are collecting. Ask experienced members for their advice and opinions; they will think more of you for asking (you don't have to follow the advice nor agree with the opinions but if you don't, keep it to yourself). Keep your eyes and ears open, and your mouth closed, and you will probably get a reputation for being wiser than you are, which hurts nothing. LEARN TO GRADE YOUR COINS PROPERLY.

If you talk but seldom, you are more likely to be listened to when you do talk, but be sure what you have to say is really worth saying. You have to earn the respect of adults, and if you want to be treated as an adult member of a club, act like an adult (or even better than some adults). Finally, get some enjoyment out of your collecting, don't take it too seriously, and it will be a comfort to you when you arrive at old age, if not a source of income even earlier. BE HONEST.

Today is a time of unprecedented opportunity for learning. Non-profit societies devote themselves to the diffusion of numismatic knowledge. Books are available, and a wealth of periodicals. Numismatics can be enjoyed at many levels, admittedly, but it seems unfortunate when its avenues, so accessible, are explored to the full by so few.

Juniors Visit U. S. Mint

The Chatham, N. J., Junior High School Coin Club traveled recently to Philadelphia by chartered bus in order to tour the U. S. Mint and the Franklin Institute, reported Scott Wainwright, club member.

At the Mint, the students observed the production of ingots and the striking of coins. U. S. cents and Philippine 10-centavo pieces were being struck at the time.

At the Franklin Institute, the students viewed the production of souvenir coins on a very old steam-operated press.

Chicago Club Lists Juniors

The Austin Coin Club, Chicago, Ill., has 28 members, 14 senior and 14 junior.

Meetings are held every third Tuesday at members homes, except during July and August when there are no meetings scheduled.

Officers are: Howard Eisenberg, president and secretary; David Jordani, vice president; Bennett Grossman, treasurer.

Junior Sets Up Hobby Exhibit

This is a display at a Shenandoah, Iowa hobby show, set up by 16-year-old Robert Huff of Shenandoah, with the assistance of several fellow collectors. This was only part of the display, according to Huff.

Women On Coins Assembled

Christine Lucas, age 11, Shaker Heights, Ohio, holds a few coins from her collection of "Women On Coins." She recently started this series, and her collection ranges from a penny and several farthings from the early years of Queen Victoria's reign through the coronation crown and various crowns and dollars of the Commonwealth nations under Queen Elizabeth II.

Teacher Leads Coin Panel

Coin collecting was the main topic discussed on the "Hill School Hour" broadcast over radio station WGNB at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, August 8.

The program, a weekly feature of the new "Florida Suncoast" FM station, is presented by the faculty and students of Grace Livingston Hill School, a private Christian elementary and junior high school in St. Petersburg.

Dwight L. Musser, a teacher at Hill School, led a group of five young coin collectors in a discussion of coin collecting in general and how numismatics can help students with their school work.

After clarifying some numismatic terms, the group listed several reasons why people like to collect coins.

On of the conclusions reached was that the hobby could be related to the following subjects in school: history, geography, government, science, mathematics, languages, biography and art.

Also mentioned were the facts that coin collecting need not be expensive that condition is im-

The Alamogordo, N. M., Junior Collectors Club was organized in May 1960 and currently has 32 members.

Juniors meet twice per month, once with the Alamogordo Coin Club for senior collectors, and once at the home of one of the members.

The joint junior-senior meeting is held on the second Monday of each month at Alamogordo's Chamber of Commerce Building at 7:30 p.m. while the junior meeting schedule is flexible.

Club officers are Allen Pankey, president, and David Potosky, vice president. One of the senior members acts as secretary for the juniors.

The juniors are planning a coin show to be staged at the upcoming Otero County, N. M., Fair.

portant and that various equipment, publications and supplies can greatly aid the collector in better understanding his hobby. The program concluded with the offer of a free coin and banknote to each boy and girl who might be listening.

The station WGNB studio is located at 5700 100th Way, North, in St. Petersburg. The station is non-commercial and broadcasts family type programs (music, news, educational) on a frequency of 101.5 megacycles-FM.

Big Zoo Formed From Coinage

Novel Coins, Old And New Gathered From Over World

By Loraine Burdick

It is lots of fun to make a coin zoo, particularly if you are already collecting coins. There are tame animals, wild animals, sea creatures, birds and even insects. Supposing one wants a pet rabbit.

Play a game! Hunt the correct coin in the illustrations as you read the story.

bit. Why, here is just the thing: a little wild hare on the three-penny piece from Ireland. See how tall he sits. But his eye is wary and his hind legs are all ready to jump away. Treat him gently or he'll not want to stay.

What about a dog? Ireland's 6 penny coin shows a greyhound. He certainly doesn't look like he would run away. But how fast he could run if he wanted to! Especially after the rabbit. Then here is the Irish halfpenny. Just one coin and yet six animals. The big fat mama sow has five little babies. How carefully someone has made the coin so that even the curly tails show. But perhaps you would prefer a stallion. Here is an Irish coin of 1954 that has a sturdy horse.

In real life it is easy to get a pet turtle. A turtle for a coin zoo isn't hard to find, either. In 1953, Fiji put a turtle on its three-penny piece. This is the "tail" of the coin, or under side, and shows the turtle turned over. A pawing steer appears on the Irish shilling that looks as though he should be included among the wild animals. Perhaps he turned the turtle over with his pawing.

Probably the easiest wild animal to capture on a coin is the beaver, on foreign coins. He is to be found on many of the nickels of Canada such as this one of 1939. Of United States coins, the buffalo is much easier to capture though even he is becoming scarce as his real-life counterpart.

If size of animal does not count, this 20 centavos piece from Portuguese Angola is good. It costs almost nothing and has an elephant and a zebra, both on the right side. There are lots of other elephants if you wish a large one. The elephant and turtle were some of the first animals to appear on coins and this tiny coin goes back to the days of Greece, perhaps even before Christ. Yet it cost me only thirty-five cents today.

A still larger elephant is only eleven years old. He came from Somalia in 1950. He looks sad, poor fellow. Perhaps it is because he has no body. This is the head of the coin. The tail says that it is a 5 centesimi piece made at Rome for Somalia, an Italian colony.

Lions and tigers are plentiful on coins. This snarling tiger is on the quarter rupee of India. How ferocious he looks, and rather hungry as well. The lion from Belgium is just the opposite. He looks so peaceful one almost expects him to fall over asleep. His tail is even between his legs—and gracefully curled over his back. He is holding up a shield with the country's motto on it. No zoo them, and later they were raised by a shepherd. Then later Romulus founded the city of Rome, the story goes on to say. Again, a marvelously trained animal if one wants to pretend to believe such a legend.

This antelope looks like a goat with extra-long horns. But he can has a better trained lion than that!

Two last coins are for the animals of our zoo. This wolf is only a legend for she was called the mother of Rome. Though she looks vicious, she is nursing Romulus and Remus on a coin of the Roman Republic. The old story says that Romulus and Remus were sons of Mars and Rhea Silva and thrown into the Tiber River. But the wolf rescued them, cared for run very fast, and comes from French Equatorial Africa.

There are other creatures that can be included in the zoo. The Irish coins also include the florin or 2 shilling piece showing a fat salmon. His mouth is open as though ready to snap at a tiny herring. This little sunken-eyed flounder comes from Danzig. Perhaps you have caught such a fish for they are very common in the salt water, and very tasty, too.

Here is a bee from Italy and there is a swan from the German area of Prenzlau. There are lots of other birds and a tiny wren appears on the British farthing. Extra numbers may be added to the zoo with the hen and chickens from Ireland or the woodcock.

There are lots of other coins that may be included in a coin zoo. Some Greek coins show the owl while the 20 drachma of 1960 has a horse on the reverse, and also a rider. Guernsey has quite naturally honored the Guernsey cow. Like Ireland, Somalia has a nice animal set. Happy hunting.

These animals need gentle treatment but they will never hurt you or each other. Perhaps in real life the salmon would gobble up the bee, the sow just might eat up the chicks, and certainly the antelope wouldn't last long in the same vicinity as the hungry tiger. On coins, they live together peacefully.

with a bronze coin of King Ptolemy II of Egypt, 285-246 B. C., showing an eagle on a thunderbolt.

A similar eagle-type design was employed on modern U. S. silver dollars.

Junior Club In New Jersey

Union Numismatic Club is comprised of ten junior collectors in Union, N. J.

Richard Lubman doubles as president and press agent. Other officers are: Larry Keller, vice president; Steven Bobelock, secretary, and Peter Lindner, treasurer.

However, Peter Lindner's position as treasurer is honorary since no dues are collected!

President-press agent Lubman said, "We have meetings only when necessary."

Museum For Juniors Only

New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art maintains a Junior Museum for youngsters and here a special display is centered around the art of sculpture.

The display calls attention to the fact that the stamping of coins and medals is a kind of relief sculpture in gold, silver, bronze, and other metals.

Here the origin of the American silver dollar is traced. The "ancestry" in this display begins

Stoll In Denver Jail Awaiting U. S. Trial

Floyd K. Stoll, 36, who had operated a scheme to bilk coin collectors around the country out of thousands of dollars, was removed from Deadwood, S. D., to Denver County, Colo., jail.

Stoll, a former Fairplay, Colo. bartender, was arrested by U. S. postal inspectors on July 3 in Belle Fourche, S. D. and has been brought to Denver to face Federal charges of using the mails in his scheme to defraud. He is being held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Ass't. U. S. Attorney Yale Huffman said he is drawing up an information file to use against Stoll in Denver's U. S. District Court. Stoll placed ads in the June 9th issue of Coin World and the June 19th issue of Numismatic News, Iowa, Wis., in which he offered coins at one-third to one-half of market prices.

After the ads appeared, Stoll received a flood of mail and checks, and did not make good on the orders. Immediately thereafter, he expanded his illegal operations by using his wife, June, and an alleged confederate, Andrew Anderson, to set up mail operations in three north-central state locations: Belle Fourche, Lady-smith, Wis., and Miles City, Mont.

As soon as complaint letters on Stoll began arriving in Coin World offices, Coin World notified U. S. postal inspectors, so that Stoll and his associates could be apprehended.

Through an agreement with the postal inspectors, an Anderson ad was allowed to run in the July 14 Coin World.

At this juncture, chief postal Inspector E. S. Windbigler of the Denver office, who had taken charge of the four-state investigation, stationed Inspector C. M. Nelson of Eau Claire, Wis. to watch Anderson's mail in Lady-smith.

From this point, it was only a matter of time before the racket was brought to an abrupt halt.

Any collector having difficulty with Stoll or Anderson is requested to contact Inspector Windbigler at Denver 1, Colo. "Give numbers, amounts, and dates of any checks or money orders sent," said Windbigler, as he prepared for the trial.

Spirited Bidding For Future Conclaves

Texas, Florida, Missouri, California, Colorado, Ohio, Washington, D. C. and Arizona are all bidding for future American Numismatic Association conventions in the future, according to a succession of invitations at the Atlanta convention.

Houston, Kansas City, San Francisco, Denver, Washington, Cleveland and Phoenix are all issuing invitations. These will be studied by the executive board of the A.N.A. before decisions will be announced, officials point out.

Many First Timers At Atlanta Meeting

"I would estimate 50 per cent of the people attending the Atlanta convention are attending an A.N.A. convention for the first time," observed Lewis M. Reagan, general secretary of the association in Atlanta.

Some observers believed the geographical location of the 1961 convention—the first convention in the south—was responsible for the newcomers who expressed enthusiasm throughout the meeting.

hobby. I sincerely hope you will understand.

In closing, and getting back to the study of numismatics, you are now holding one of the best sources of numismatic information available today. When you pick up your copy of Coin World do you turn first to the advertising section? That's good, but after looking over the ads, turn back through the pages and notice the news items, the many columns written by some of the top numismatic authorities in the world.

Yes, in your hands you now hold a source of valuable information. Read it from cover to cover and you will soon see what I am trying to put across.

I only regret that I don't have more space available to continue this column, but there are others (with far more knowledge than I) who also wish to take this opportunity to assist the Junior collector.

Maybe I have helped a little, maybe not. In any case, if I can ever be of service to you and your friends let me know. My address is Ed's Coiner, The Dominion-News, Morgantown, West Virginia. I would be happy to hear from you!

No Base Metal

Throughout the Middle Ages there was no base metal coinage in England, only gold and silver. An issue of base metal coins of low value was considered to be beneath the dignity of the Crown.

FARTHINGS

This is the one everyone's talking about. The last year of issue — very few minted with most melted down—lowest mintage of the 20th Century—almost none in circulation. A natural key coin. (James Muggeridge, F.R.N.S., the noted English specialist, says that it is harder to obtain a 1956 farthing than to put a needle through the eye of a camel!) Serving with Schwartz as members of the committee were John H. Morris Jr., Homewood, Ala.; Jack Koch, Moses Lake, Wash.; George Hatie, Detroit, and Ellis Elowitz, Washington, D. C.

English Coins...

king's head within an inner circle, on the reverse a double-barrelled cross.

On these coins there are names of many mint towns, chiefly in abbreviated form, many may be deciphered. The coinage of the last issue are by far the commonest.

Henry died at Chignon on July 6, 1189, and was buried at Fontevrault.

Richard I (1189-1199) Plantagenet House:

King Richard I, or Richard the Crusader, as many historians call him, was the third son of Henry II by Eleanor of Aquitaine. Born in September 1157, he received at the age of 11 the Duchy of Aquitaine, and was formally installed in 1172.

There are no English coins with the name of Richard I on them. That is to say, there were coins struck during Richard's reign from dies used by his father, but not in the English field. There were, however, Continental coins on which Richard is described as the Duke of Aquitaine.

*Concurrently with the issue of coins in England, by virtue of their dukedoms in France, early English kings minted separate coins for use in those dominions. Richard I, as Earl of Poitou, and also for the lordship of the Duchy of Aquitaine, struck coins for both places as early as 1168 A.D.

Searcy Club Meets

The Searcy, Ark., Coin Club is scheduled to meet on Tuesday, September 5, in the Community room of the Searcy Bank building, starting at 7:30 p.m. Visitors are welcome.

After Richard's Holy Land crusade he returned to England. At the age of 42 while directing an assault in France, he was wounded in the shoulder by a crossbow bolt, and the wound mortifying from unskillful treatment or his own want of care, died on April 6, 1199. Richard I was buried by his own desire at his father's feet in the church of Fontevrault.

Beginners To Receive Book

The American Numismatic Association has recognized the need to assist beginning collectors and will reprint the pamphlet, "Introduction to Coin Collecting."

Announcement of the executive board decision was made at the Atlanta convention.

Material for the book will be brought up to date and will first appear in The Numismatist. Later the articles will be published in pamphlet form and sold at cost.

Elston Bradfield, editor of The Numismatist, will be editor of the booklet. Glenn Smedley will be the executive director, coordinating the revision of various articles and preparing the manuscript.

Coin Club Formed

The Stratford, Conn., Coin Club, organized just last May, has scheduled its next meeting for Tuesday, September 5, to be held at 2375 Barnum Avenue in Stratford, starting at 7:30 p.m. At its last session, the club decided to incorporate.

Hilton Dickerson was one of the hardest working members of the 1961 A.N.A. convention committee. He worked around the clock operating the service desk.

Thieves Take Confederate Collection

Thieves broke into the Orlando, Fla., home of Jack Sweetman, on August 17, and stole a collection of coins and paper money valued in excess of $40,000.

Sweetman and his wife were out to dinner at the time.

The collection was locked in a steel safe measuring five by three feet. It weighed 1,250 pounds empty, but is believed the thieves loaded the entire safe onto a pickup truck and drove away.

Included in the loss was a complete type set collection of Confederate currency, with nearly all pieces being in uncirculated condition.

Two items of particularly high value were a part of the Confederate collection, the two essay notes printed by Keatinge and Ball of Columbia, S. C., numbers 345 ($20 denomination) and 346 ($10) in Criswell's Confederate and Southern State Currency series.

Over $7,000 worth of foreign gold coins were also in the safe, some of them choice gold pieces of Imperial Rome. In addition, there were a number of silver and bronze coins of Imperial Rome.

Orlando police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are working on the case, but thus far no solid clues have turned up, according to the Florida numismatist.

"Insurance will cover the value of most of the collection," Sweetman told Coin World, "but the coins and banknotes can never be replaced. For example, I spent 12 years in assembling and upgrading my collection of Confederate currency alone," added the Florida collector.

Sweetman was to have exhibited his Confederate currency, bonds and Florida banknotes at the American Numismatic Association Convention in Atlanta last week.

BUFFALO NICKELS

In lieu of our usual listing of Buffalo nickels, we offer the following statement: We treat dates on filler grade Buffalo - Fr. and Abt. G - whenever they need it. We shall continue to do so. Our advice to all collectors of circulated Buffalo: Think for yourselves, you cannot afford to have others do it for you. No collector owes any allegiance to those forces in "the industry" who are fighting treated dates so desperately, nor do we. The imputation that everyone treating dates on filler grades is a "coin alterer," "crook," "counterfeiter" etc. etc. can lie there and smell. It might alert a lot of people. This is where we part company with COIN WORLD on the subject of Buffalo nickels.

Guidance, Encouragement All-Important To Juniors

By Harold Don Allen

The popular image of the numismatist as an elderly grey-bearded introvert never has been further from the truth. Monetary study still can be a life-long pursuit, and few who take it seriously desert it, but more and more are flocking to its particular promises and fascinations while in their teens or younger, so the average age among coin enthusiasts must have taken quite a drop in recent years.

What do we know of these younger collectors, the juniors entering our ranks? What can we do to help and encourage them, to assure that they gain the greatest dividends from their dollars and hours? Several generalizations are fairly safe, that our juniors are anywhere from seven or eight to whatever upper age limit we may select (shall we agree upon the A.N.A. admission age of 17?), that they have abundant energy, and more time and money than any generation before them. And that they have great potential for getting things done.

This potential I think we underestimate. Have you ever browsed among the exhibits at a high school Science Fair? Have you leafed through prize and scholarship tests in which our best secondary students regularly compete? I have, and I maintain that we are wrong when we give a youngster a coin board for Lincoln cents and then fail to follow up with a glimpse of the more sophisticated side of contemporary numismatics.

And by that I don't mean the high pressure horse-trading in mint sacks!

The first thing that should be done for the serious youngster, no matter how young he is, is to bring him into contact with leading minds in numismatics, for every community has advanced and mature collectors from whom more can be learned than from any book.

Young collectors should hear such seniors as speakers, perhaps in special addresses designed for youth groups or a club's juniors, and meet them afterwards. The answers that are given and the questions that are provoked can do much to develop a young and inquiring mind.

Few children are so insensitive as twice to dwell on the lowly plane of "What's it worth?"

Youngsters are creatures of rapidly changing interests: today's coins will be set aside for tomorrow's ball game, which is as it should be, for life offers much that is to be sampled. But collecting interest, if it is to take root and provide life-long pleasure and fascination, must be based upon more than a casual whim. Its foundations must be in something more firm than desire for quick profit. In short, initial interest must be nurtured, new discoveries must lead to wider, fuller understanding and appreciation of coins.

Here the reference shelf is essential. The coin club can do much by donating a few key books to the community library, seeing to it that they are well used, and then suggesting how the numismatic shelf can expand. The school library similarly might be encouraged, and I would urge that a few good references be available on modern English, Canadian and foreign coins. These pieces, surprisingly accessible in neighborhood accumulations, can form the nucleus of an inexpensive collection of considerable educational value. The books will be needed, and so will an experienced collector who can offer points of interest about individual coins.

Juniors need someone to look up to, but also like their own company. Meetings where they can trade material, arrange displays, and compare notes, guided by a senior collector, have great value. Such groups may function in a school or youth organization, or as a junior branch of the community coin club, but they merit our attention and support.

Our younger generation enjoys a surplus of time and energy that most of us have cause to envy, and such a surplus permits the junior to collect in ways that we wish we could do. Certainly they can hunt rolls of coins, search for key dates: what better way to learn the meaning of "Scarce coin!" They may repeat some of the wild goose chases of my boyhood,—but those chases led me to treasure my more prized items all the more.

My really active collecting was done before the days of Canadian coin holders, and I'd never seen a catalogue for dated decimal coins. I searched the change in Montreal, in the school cafeteria, finding English farthings and half-pennies, Indian and Australian coppers, "big" cents and silver fives and Newfoundland twenties, for in those days you could. Canadian sequences I arranged by dates, on a table, under a huge sheet of glass. (This, alas, one cannot do in a bank vault!) I strove for completion, and observed classic varieties, including the 1913 broad-leaf ten cents. But the hours spent hunting for non-existent coins, the 1889 cent (I had every date since!), the silver of 1922 through 1926, the 50 cents of 1930, 1933, and 1935!

The paper money called for the highest degree of resourcefulness, and I still pride myself in the gems I acquired. A scholarship had paid my fees for the senior year of high school, $5 per month: my father, saying I had earned it, each month gave me the cash. Each month the hunt began anew. I "made the rounds" of dozens of branch banks, asking to browse through the "sundry notes." These old bills were the issues of the (then) ten chartered banks, and were being cleared to be destroyed. In ten months I obtained a "five" from each institution, constantly striving for earlier, scarcer dates. All notes were obtained at face, yet somehow I prize them more than many of the high-premium rarities I since have been able to acquire.

The youngster should have a taste of such a hunt, whether he be exploring his country's decimal sequences or searching through dealers' odd lots for foreign coins and notes. But he should have the guidance I lacked, for he is entitled to it. He should have the literature, the contacts, the fraternal affiliation, for there is no substitute for them. He should be led to the off-beat trails in numismatics, which someday he may want to explore.

Work with young collectors provides dividends which more than repay the time and energy involved. Their approach is fresh, their curiosity insatiable and, somehow, in them we have the satisfaction of circumventing the mistakes that marred our beginning efforts.

School clubs at two Canadian high schools have provided me with some of my most interesting numismatic experiences, whether we were touring the Mint or the Bank of Canada, exploring a local museum, or simply sitting in a classroom, talking coins. I have found that these youngsters, almost without exception, came to me with a narrow, restricted concept of what was "collectible." Frightened by high prices in the catalogues, they would have become discouraged at the hopelessness of "completion," and, knowing no other goal, looked to more satisfying pursuits.

I note that such youngsters take readily to alternate suggestions, providing they can locate suitable material and discover something of the story it can tell. One of the finest of American dealers, whose days are spent teaching in an elementary school classroom, has sent us "wholesale lots" of off-beat material, from which the youngsters can pick and choose.

I feel quite sure that his profit barely covers his postage, but he has started many beginners in the direction of prisoner of war money, emergency scrip, and the like. Our foreign exchange centers, too, have been helpful, for it still is true, though less than it was, that many attractive foreign bills are worth but a few cents.

Such groups need contact with authoritative sources, and like a feeling of belonging: a highlight in our club's history was the day the president persuaded the Student Council to foot the bill for membership in the A.N.A.

No, the serious coin collector today need not be an old man. The grand old men of numismatics have much to teach us, but the boy—or girl—with a pride in knowledge and a willingness to work to learn can go far on his own—farther still if those who could will take the moment to give guidance and encouragement. The time could not be better spent.

Open Letter To Juniors

By Roger Rudman

I feel that now there is a great need for a nation-wide organization of numismatics under the age of 21. I am presently attempting to form the Young Numismatists of America. The main function of this organization will be to help us "juniors" gain more knowledge of our hobby.

Before a minor can advertise in a numismatic newspaper or magazine he must submit various responsibility forms, permission slips, etc., signed by his parent or guardian. It can be quite a bother sending in some form of permission slip to each of the numismatic newspapers.

Many of us (including myself) have chosen to avoid these forms completely. This is the wrong attitude because such forms are necessary to avoid legal entanglements.

Perhaps this situation can be remedied by the filling out of these slips as part of the Y.N.A. application blank once and for all. A number would be assigned to each member which could be used when advertising.

A newspaper would be printed a few times a year. Noted numismatists would be invited to write articles on their specialty.

Aside from such articles, each member will be allowed free advertising.

This would allow us to deal with each other on many of the less rare coins that many dealers don't stock (or sell at ridiculous prices) as well as a few of the rarer ones.

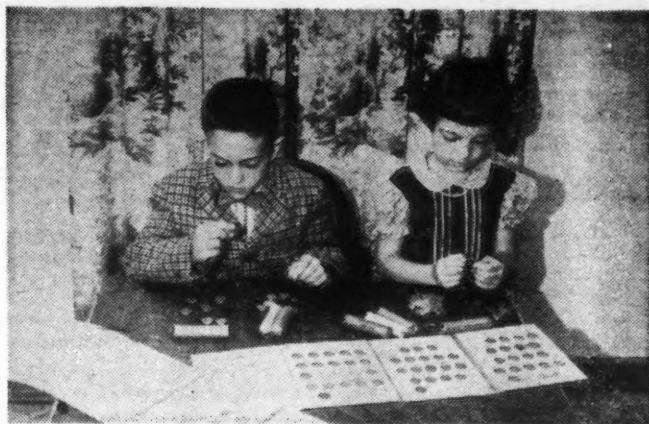

At least once a year a complete member list will be sent to all members. This list would not only include the name and address of every Y.N.A. member, but their specific interests or wants.

A library consisting of some of the rarer and more expensive numismatic books would be founded. Lower advertising rates in all of the numismatic publications (for minors) will be sought. Annual conventions will be held across the nation.

The only way the Young Numismatists of America can ever form is if you write to me at: 67-14 Parsons Blvd., Flushing 65, N. Y. Tell me what you think of the idea of the Y.N.A. and make suggestions. Don't forget to include your age.

Oh! I forgot to mention that I'm 15 and have collected coins for about seven years.

MENTION "COIN WORLD" IN ANSWERING ANY AD!

Sh! Hobbyists At Work

John Edward Lingo, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, who is seven years old and one of the youngest entrants in Coin World's Junior Contest, gets a helping hand here from his five-year-old sister Cheryl as they work on his collection.

New Jersey Youth Converts Knowledge Into Good Profit

Being at the right place at the right time with a knowledge of coins helped a 14-year-old Teaneck, N. J. boy turn $36 into a solid offer of $450 within a few brief hours at a bank window.

The boy is Robert Kunis, of Teaneck N. J., who has been a "serious" collector for the past two years.

Two weeks ago he took a 20-dollar bill from his total resources of $36 and hopefully exchanged it for 20 silver dollars at the Garden State National Bank in Teaneck.

Among the 20 "cart-wheels" he found 18 1928 "Peace" dollars, struck at the Philadelphia mint. They ranged in condition from "very fine" to "uncirculated," according to dealers' terms.

"Finding so many like that made me think I was wrong about what they were," he said.

Collectors seek the 1928 dollars because only 360,649 were issued, many for cornerstone layings. "Peace" dollars were minted from 1921 to 1935, after the 1920

American Numismatic Association convention agitated for a Peace Dollar design.

Robert went back to the bank, of course, and this time he got eleven more valuable coins. Then parental funds enabled him to gather in ten more. This exhausted the supply at the Garden State Bank, but by then he had 36 coins in the desired condition.

"I found I had 15 in uncirculated condition, just like they came from the mint," he said. "Ten are almost uncirculated, eight are extra fine and three very fine."

For the coins with a face value of $36, one dealer offered him a certified check for $450.

Coin Striking Explained; Techniques Are Analyzed

(NOTE: This week's column contains, as far as possible, only letters from junior collectors, in keeping with the theme of this special edition).

Dallas R. Rebmann Jr. of West Chester, Pa., writes that he has a 1954-S Lincoln cent with the "9" filled in, and would like to know how it happened.

ANSWER: Like another question covered in this column not many issues ago, this question had to be asked to make us realize that many collectors don't know some things we take for granted. (Coin clubs take notice). Here is the general picture, in non-technical words.

First, a master die is made by cutting away from the design, which leaves the design standing OUT on the die, with parts of that design cut away a little bit to give detail.

Then a working die of soft steel is pressed against the master die, and the design is pressed IN on the working die, in contrast to the master die where it sticks out. So the working die might be said to be hollowed out in the shape of the design. It is then hardened.

The coin planchet or plain metal is also soft. When the working die is pressed against it, the design is raised or OUT on the coin since the pressure pushes the soft metal into the hollow design on the die, and the raised or flat part of the Die Presses deeper on the coin.

For a simple experiment that anyone can do, take any coin and imagine it is a master die. Press it against a piece of modeling clay. The clay will then look like a working die. Then press that against something softer but stiff enough to retain shape, and you will have a coin.

Now, dies become defective. They get worn, they crack, they get holes in them, the hollow-out places may get filled up with pieces of metal filings or dirt or anything else that happens along. Also, lumps of metal may stick to them, sometimes even filings or spots of metal may get stuck on a planchet.

If a hollowed-out part of the working die, that is, a part of the design, gets filled up with a metal shaving, the coin will be flat at that spot, since there remains no hollow spot on the die for the coin's metal to push into. So we get a missing figure or letter or some other part of the design, like the "broken nose" on some Mercury dimes, or a date with only three figures.

If there is a crack on the die, there will be an extra hollow spot, generally a thin "ditch" for metal to push into, and we get what is known as a "die crack" on the coin which is a raised line, since the crack was "in" on the die, just as the design is. Cracks or breaks on the die merely differ in shape, or gouges or "digs", all producing the same result, a raised place on the coin which does not belong there.

The Canadian "dot" coins are examples. Canadian dies are chrome plated, and holes are fairly easily "eaten" into them, and those holes make raised dots on the coin. The only ones that were intentional, so far as we know, were the 1936 "dot" coins.

On the other hand, a lump on the die will push "into" the coin, leaving a sunken impression the size of the lump and just as deep as the lump is high.

Any error on the master die such as a slip in cutting, a gouge, or anything else, will be carried on through the working die to the coin, unless it was corrected somewhere along the line, on either of the dies, master or working.

Sometimes a piece of metal will become attached to the working die, then will stick to the coin and become a part of it. Dies are supposed to be cleaned every so often, but things happen in between the cleaning times.

Summing up, any part of the working die which is cut in, whether intentionally part of the design or not, will become a raised part of the completed coin, and any part of the die which sticks out, intentionally or otherwise, will become a hollowed spot on the coin. Worn away parts of a die will be hollow and will become raised spots on a coin.

Those are the "high spots" in an explanation of what causes the coin oddities we speak of as "die defective" coins, and there are infinite possibilities of specific oddities from defective dies, which makes none of them have much value unless truly spectacular or unusual. They are not to be confused with "intentional" errors such as recut dies, or double strikes which have nothing to do with the die but with the striking process during which a thousand other "errors" can occur.

Bobby Thornton, 12, of Athens, Ga., sends in a rubbing of a 1944 Lincoln cent on which the lettering and date are indented or "in-cuse" instead of raised, and would like to know how come.

ANSWER: Charles Schermerhorn, expert on Mint errors, has given us a possible explanation which we carried here a few weeks ago. That is, that successive coins themselves get stuck in the die and become, for practical purposes, the die for the next planchet that comes along. Each one has a little different effect. Your rubbing seems to show a double Lincoln which you did not mention, which fits, although it may be just the rubbing itself. We suggest you send the coin to Mr. Schermerhorn along with a stamped addressed envelope, and let us know what he says. His address is 1601 Central Avenue, Albany 5, N. Y. You can rely on him.

Ken Weingarden, 14, of Detroit, Mich., has been observing his coins closely and reports some varieties. He mentions the 1941-D and 1952-D nickels with two distinct placements of Mint marks: also the same thing on the 1917-S dime, reporting also that early Mercury dimes were mostly "micro S".

COMMENT: It is observation and study like yours that makes a numismatist out of a coin collector. Also, such reports help to increase specific knowledge about a series. Variation in Mint mark position is not uncommon, although not many reports have been made about such in nickels. Possibly you might be able to figure out how many working dies were used in those years, since the position of a Mint mark must stay exactly the same for all coins from the same working die. Carry your study of the nickels a little further and report again.

Thomas Ala, 12, of Houghton, Mich., has asked if cleaning a coin with a pencil eraser does any harm to the coin.

ANSWER: It does not do any particular harm to the coin but it does give the coin an unnatural appearance which makes it less desirable when you want to sell or trade it to somebody else.

The Youngstown, Ohio, Numismatic Club has scheduled its next meeting for Thursday, September 7, to be held at Krakusy Hall, 2205 South Avenue. Bourse opens at 6:30 p.m., business meeting at 8 o'clock, with auction following at 9 p.m.

Real Beauty

The silver dekadrachm of about 400 B. C., struck in Syracuse, is reputed as one of the most beautiful coins ever made.

Many Fine Books For Junior Collectors

What books should the junior collector read?

Before someone answers "all of 'em he can get ahold of," which will probably be the case—there are some coin books designed especially for the junior collector.

Latest to appear—and easiest to read—is "Nails to Nickels" by Elizabeth A. Campbell. The large type and many illustrations make this a natural for the pre-teen crowd.

The book gives a light treatment of American coins, old and new.

Don't let the title of Walter Buehr's book "Treasure — The Story of Money and its Safeguarding" mislead you. This is a book on coins and paper money in story form.

It will hold the junior's interest for many hours.

A somewhat longer book, "The History of Money" is by an Englishman, Arthur Groom. He is one of Britain's best known writers for young people.

Groom's book is more on worldwide money, but he does match the chapter on English coins with one on American. It is published in this country by Archer House.

W. M. Hutchinson has written two books for the junior reader: "A Child's Book of Coins and Currency, Old and New," published in 1957; and "Maxton Book About Coins and Currency," 1959.

As part of a series of subjects of interest to young people, Eva Knox Evans has written a book on coins, "The Adventure Book of Money." This is one of Capitol Publishing Company's Young Collector Book series.

Sterling Publishing Company has brought out several books for the young coin collector. Written by an expert numismatic author, Fred Reinfeld, the firm offers "Coin Collecting," which was previously named "Coinometry" and went through several editions.

The only book that might be difficult to buy—but might be available in libraries is Frederic Majer's "Our Country's Money." It gives a history of coins plus a section on how coins are made.

Indiana author David T. Peck writes on antiques for boys and girls. One book on antiques already has been published in which he mentions coin collecting. He tells us that he has several more books coming.

Watch for books by David Peck; he recommends coins as a way to learn of our heritage.

A more advanced book, but one that will interest our younger readers, is "Pieces of Fate" by Clarence M. Fink. It is still available as are all the books mentioned in this story.

Check your library for the books listed here. Check the card catalog for books listed under "coins—coinage" and "numismatics."

In open stacks look for the 777 series (Dewey) or the CJ series (Library of Congress).

Read everything you can on coins—your interest will be sparked that much more.

Don't fret if you didn't find what you wanted. This is only the first of a series of mail bid sales, each containing similar material, but many more dates and grades will be represented in future BACK TO COLLECTING sales. These lots have been broken into many small sales, rather than one large sale to enable me to give faster replies to your bids, and to assist the budgeted collector in obtaining the coins he needs by allowing a short period of time between sales.

Look for the second BACK TO COLLECTING mail bid sale in the September 15th, issue of COIN WORLD.

How Would You Choose The Best Coin Albums?

Separate the original from the imitation as you would separate the men from the

THE LIBRARY OF COINS

By Any Standard, Still The Best!

Complete visibility and complete protection, the two most-wanted features of a coin album, are presented for the first time by THE LIBRARY OF COINS. Bound like books, handsome and compact, each Library of Coins volume displays and protects its coins between two sliding panels of clear, tough plastic. Each coin "porthole" has printed next to it full data on mint mark and quantity minted. Each volume contains a brief background story on the coins, giving both the novice and advanced collector helpful information, including a listing of the rare dates.

Measuring 8 1/4" x 6 1/4", the volumes are low priced, sturdily manufactured, and permanently bound in a variety of identifying colors for the various denominations. Their compact size permits the storing of a large coin collection in very small space. Backbones are clearly gold stamped so that they are as readily identifiable as are books.

The Library of Coins represents the first major innovation in high grade coin albums in more than 30 years, and was several years in development. Designed by numismatists, the Library of Coins is designed to satisfy the needs and desires of numismatists. Write for descriptive circular on the Library of Coins.
